Welcome to Adams County!

No matter what your reason for coming, whether to live, open a business or spend your days relaxing, you have selected a great destination. There are many wonderful things to experience in our community and we have no doubt that you will be pleased with your choice!

Adams County has so many things to offer its residents regardless of your age. This is a great place to raise a family – great school systems, many family-oriented events and activities. If you are on the other side of life and looking for a great place to retire, Adams County has something for you – numerous active, adult communities; countless cultural events and lots of great organizations looking for expert volunteers.

Or, is your choice for coming to Adams County to open or relocate a business? If so, our proximity to major highways leading up and down the east coast is invaluable. We also boast a very dedicated workforce that can fill any variety of openings you bring with you. In addition, you have access to an endless amount of training and continuing education courses that you and your workforce can attend or have custom developed to meet your specific needs.

If you are here on vacation...take it all in! There are very few who visit and don't leave having been touched in some way by the historic events that have taken place in this small, rural farming community. These events have shaped our way of living today. In many ways, we are still that same community, with agriculture being one of our main industries in the county. You can visit several markets for fresh produce, or take a peaceful drive through the beautiful orchards.

This is just a sampling of what you will find within this publication and in Adams County. We hope you will see why we love to call this area our home and we look forward to meeting you when you are in the area, no matter what your reasons are for coming to our community.

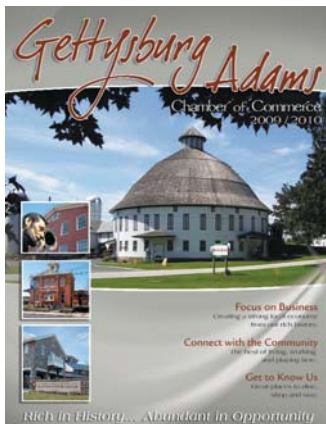

Sincerely,

The Adams County Business Education Partnership

The Adams County Business Education Partnership, a Council of the Gettysburg Adams Chamber of Commerce began in 1991 as a result of the 1988 Future Directions Committee survey to determine local priorities. The survey pointed to an “educational deficit” within the community. The survey showed concerns about the need for higher skill level and job readiness for the entry-level workforce, the dropout rate, and the educational level of the population. The Partnership established a compact between the business and education community and began the job of helping Adams County provide the emerging labor force with the means of acquiring skills to increase their level of mobility within the local labor force market.

In 1994, the US Congress passed the School-to-Work Opportunities Act. While this Act sunset in September 2001, it established a system or framework for the Business Education Partnership to grow and flourish to meet the changing needs of the community. The Partnership continues to grow and change to meet the needs of our students, the emerging workforce. As an Intermediary, the Partnership connects employers and workplace partners, schools, training programs, and community organizations to serve the needs of young people as they prepare for life as adults and life long learning.

THE SYSTEM:

Mini Grants (Grades K-12) - Promotes career education in the classroom.

Mentoring Program (Grades 11-12) - Mentoring and life skills for at-risk students.

Adams County Career Fair (10th Grade) - Provides the opportunity for all Adams County youth in the tenth grade to explore career opportunities in three different career paths.

Job Shadowing (11th Grade) - Provides the opportunity for students to explore in more depth a career field they are interested in pursuing.

Senior Self-Improvement Award - A $500 cash award is given to the high school senior in each of the six school districts that shows the most improvement during their senior year in grades, attendance, behavior, attitude, effort, and community service. Four runners-up are also given a $100 cash award. This dropout prevention program is aimed at turning around the lives of potential dropouts.

Coordination of Summer Jobs/Internships - Working with the business community and CareerLink an early spring, summer job fair is held to assist the business community help students become familiar with the world of work and career opportunities.

Educator in the Workplace - Provides an opportunity for educators and administrators to explore the world of work outside the classroom and share that experience with their students.

Adams County Tech-Prep Consortium (Grades 11-12) - The Partnership supports the Tech-Prep Consortium that links the integration of academic and vocational technical curricula with career exploration and the job experiences in: Allied Health, Computer Technology, Culinary Arts, and Law Enforcement and Police Science.

History

Discover our rich traditions

Adams County, and its County seat, Gettysburg, are located in south-central Pennsylvania on the Mason-Dixon line, the border drawn in the mid-1700s to differentiate the North from the South. When most people think of Adams County, they think of Gettysburg. But settlers began arriving in the region as early as the 1730s, long before the Battle of Gettysburg occurred.

The land that now is known as Adams County was purchased from the Iroquois Indians by the family of William Penn in 1736. Initially the region was settled by English, German and Scots-Irish seeking to escape religious persecution. One of the settlers, Samuel Gettys, established a tavern in 1761. By 1786, his son James had laid out over 200 plots of land with a central square surrounding the tavern. This land, which originally was located in York County, would later become known as Gettysburg.

The population grew rapidly, and by the late 1700s, many living here decided they wanted to form their own county. The state legislature approved the change in 1800, naming the new county after the President at that time, John Adams. Gettysburg became the county seat. Arendtsville, Biglerville, Carroll Valley, East Berlin, Fairfield, Littlestown and New Oxford are some of the other towns and villages located in Adams County.

By 1860, Gettysburg's population had grown to almost 2,500, about a third of its current size. The ten roads leading into the town were necessary for transporting many of the agricultural products grown here, as well as to move other goods and services. Shoemakers, tanners, carriage manufacturers as well as a number of professionals made their homes in Gettysburg and surrounding communities.

The roads were also perfectly situated for the armies of the Union and Confederacy to reconnoiter during the Civil War. One of the bloodiest battles of the war was held here July 1-3, 1863. Famous sites such as the Wheatfield, Peach Orchard, Little Round Top and Devil's Den can be seen today. Gettysburg is also the site of President Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address, and was the retirement home of President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Location

Where north and south meet

On the famous Mason-Dixon Line, the historic border between the old "north and south," Adams County is a gateway community founded at the crossroads of some of America's earliest highways. The County seat, Gettysburg, is a short distance from the vibrant metropolitan centers of Washington, D.C., Baltimore, and Philadelphia. Despite being so near to these East Coast cities, Adams County retains a remarkably well-preserved rural landscape. Yet, with its rural and small town setting, the county's location provides easy access to some of the Country's finest cultural, scientific, historical, political, economic and commercial resources.

Gettysburg is less than a one-hour drive from major centers of growth and development found at the edges of surrounding metropolitan areas. To the south, ex-urban “boom towns” such as Frederick and Westminster, Maryland are only a half hour away. Thirty minutes to the north, growing business center complexes surround the “Gettysburg Pike” interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Harrisburg. To the east, Adams County residents can easily reach the rapidly growing medium-sized cities of York and Lancaster, and to the west, a drive to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, Hagerstown, Maryland, and the Interstate 81 corridor takes approximately 35 minutes. Excellent highways provide easy and quick connections between the Gettysburg area and these market areas.

In addition, several international airports are within a short drive and provide access to any destination. Harrisburg, Baltimore-Washington, Dulles and Philadelphia International airports offer regular commuter flights as well as international travel. Charter flights are available through nearby Thomasville airport and for those with a penchant for flying themselves, can land right in Historic Gettysburg.

Greyhound bus and Amtrak rail travel are available with local terminals located in Harrisburg. Gettysburg Tours, Inc. provides shuttle service from Gettysburg to the various terminals, as well as Diana's Limousine Service. Freight rail service is provided by CSX Railroad (East-West) and Northern Railroad Co. (North-South).

Gettysburg and Adams County truly have a unique setting central to the northeast and mid-Atlantic states, convenient to the capital complexes in Washington, D.C. and Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and easily accessible to other major metropolitan centers of economic, political, educational, cultural, and academic research. Yet the area retains a pleasant and refreshingly rural atmosphere with numerous communities that have maintained their charm.

Adams County's two top industries, agriculture and tourism, are supplemented by numerous food processors, manufacturing interests, a strong service industry, and retail trade which provide further stability to the local economy. traditional work ethic. It is this positive work ethic, along with numerous other attractive features and qualities within this community, which draw new businesses to Adams County. One such appealing feature is also an example of the changing face of business – the Adams Commerce Center business park, just east of Gettysburg.

However, it is the area's natural beauty, rural setting, quiet lifestyle, as well as historical significance that attract many professionals, craftspeople and other types of businesses to Adams County.

The setting is a perfect place to raise a family or retire. In addition, access to multiple northeast markets, plus support from County and municipal governments make for an unbeatable quality of life.

Travel & Tourism

Supporting the local economy

Courtesy of Ellen Manning

As the site of one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War, tourism is a mainstay of the local economy. Each year, between one and one-half to two million visitors tour the Gettysburg National Military Park and the Eisenhower Historic Site. An increasing number also come here to visit Michaux State Forest, the quaint towns and scenic countryside, as well as to search for antiques, participate in reenactments, stay at a charming bed and breakfast, or enjoy some adventurous bicycling routes.

In addition to bringing seemingly countless visitors to our community, tourism provides many opportunities for employment from seasonal positions occupied by high school students and retired individuals to full-time management positions. Over 7,200 people were directly and indirectly employed by the tourism industry in 2005 and were paid a total of $214 million in wages.

With the influx of visitors to Adams County comes the requirement of additional support services provided by local government agencies. Over $82 million in tax revenue was collected in 2005 which goes toward covering these added expenses. Additionally, a portion of the funds are used to promote Adams County as a tourism destination.

The majority of homes are owner-occupied and range from lower-priced, modest homes for first time buyers to larger, more expensive structures with multiple amenities. Choices include charming pre-and-post Civil War era homes in both rural and in-town settings, appealing farm-houses, delightful ranches and cape cods in family-friendly developments; sprawling custom-built executive homes in waterfront and golf course settings, as well as cabins in the woods, double-wide manufactured houses and everything in between.

The average cost of housing is just over $200,000. Executive homes can sell for $350,000-$500,000. Homes in planned housing developments can range from $285,000 to $450,000 depending on amenities. More modest homes and vacation cabins located in rural areas and near state parks can be purchased from as low as $75,000 to up to $150,000. Most homes are on the market for three to six months.

Land is also reasonably priced. Building lots range in price from $50,000 to over $120,000 depending on size, location and infrastructure improvements. Construction costs range

Health Care

At the heart of our community

In addition to Gettysburg Hospital, Hanover Hospital and other community-based hospitals in surrounding counties, Adams Countians have access to some of the best medical facilities on the East Coast at Hershey, York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Gettysburg Hospital is part of the WellSpan Health System, an integrated delivery system including York and Gettysburg Hospitals, Visiting Nurse Association Home Health, satellite facilities and other related specialties. Hanover Hospital is located just over the County border in neighboring York County and along with Gettysburg Hospital serves the eastern and southeastern portions of Adams County.

Gettysburg Hospital and Hanover Hospital are fully accredited facilities supported by a wide range of physician specialties, and have an excellent referral network with tertiary care facilities throughout Pennsylvania and neighboring Maryland. Both hospitals operate an expanding number of satellite diagnostics, surgical and primary care centers. The recently opened Gettysburg Cancer Center offers Adams County residents leading edge radiation treatment technology. Where cancer patients previously had to travel long distances for this treatment, local physicians have taken it upon themselves to bring high quality, patient-focused radiation therapy treatment right here in Adams County.

Adams County is also served by an extensive and dynamic network of health and human service agencies and a State Health Center. The numerous skilled nursing facilities throughout the County provide an array of services including rehabilitation, memory-impairment and other specialized services.

The Adams County Office for Aging (ACOFA) offers a wide range of services to our growing aging population. To accomplish their mission of helping Adams Countians maintain their independence and dignity within their own community, the ACOFA provides home health care, personal care, health support services, respite care and other services such as transportation, and health and education programs.

Additionally, the Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) of Hanover and Spring Grove and its affiliate Community Health Services (CHS) are committed to meeting acute and long-term health and support needs of residents in their homes. The VNA Hospice program provides a wide range of support to the terminally ill and their caregivers. County residents have relied on the quality services of not-for-profit organizations VNA, CHS and VNA Hospice since 1909.

Education

Preparing for leadership

Adams County's six public school districts, and several parochial schools offer quality educational environments, modern facilities, and diverse curricula for students of all ages. A dedicated faculty involved in ongoing professional development and instructionally innovative programs produces a solid, well-coordinated K-12 curricula in the schools.

The 95% and above attendance rate, the less than 3% dropout rate, and the fact that over 60% of graduates go on for further education add credibility to the above.

The public schools offer a variety of early intervention and student support programs in addition to educational programming for gifted, special education, English as a Second Language, and remedial support. Technology education is implemented across the curriculum with computer centers in each building. Technology includes AUTOCAD drafting systems, DISCOVER career guidance systems, and ACCESS PA statewide library database on CD-ROM.

Academics are integrated with a wide range of extra curricular activities to develop self-confidence, citizenship and leadership skills. Boys' and girls' athletic teams successfully compete either in the Mid-Penn Conference of the P.I.A.A. or the York Adams I.A.A.

Parent and community participation is encouraged as a vital component. Participation is through parent/teacher organizations, alumni associations, booster clubs, district advisory committees, classroom volunteer programs, adult education and open houses.

Adams County also enjoys active cooperation between business/industry and the education community through the Business Education Partnership. The Partnership is a link that allows students of Adams County the opportunity to experience and prepare for today's complex world of work.

In addition, Adams County is especially fortunate to have two renowned higher educational institutions, Gettysburg College and Lutheran Theological Seminary, both located within walking distance of downtown Gettysburg. Founded in 1826, the Lutheran Theological Seminary is the nation's oldest, and among its finest theological schools. Established in 1832, Gettysburg College remains a highly acclaimed private, liberal arts college. The Lutheran Theological Seminary and Gettysburg College lend an academic air to the town of Gettysburg and provide numerous other benefits to enhance the quality of life. The Gettysburg Campus of Harrisburg Area Community College (HACC) offers a wide range of affordable, high quality programs for students of all ages. The college offers associate degree programs for career and transfer students; career-specific certificate and diploma programs; a comprehensive selection of noncredit courses; and customized employee training programs for business and industry. Available options include full or part-time study, day or evening classes, internet and video courses.

Just south of the Adams County line in Maryland, Mount Saint Mary's University and Seminary offers a Catholic liberal arts curriculum. In addition to the academic and cultural attributes of "The Mount," the university offers superb athletic facilities and Division I sports. Penn State's Capital, Mont Alto and York Campuses, Mount Saint Mary's, Shippensburg University, and York College offer under-graduate and graduate degree programs. Additionally, adult continuing education classes are offered through many of the area colleges, universities, and school districts.

Recreation

So much to see and do

New residents and visitors to Adams County quickly discover that this wonderfully rural area offers a full array of outdoor and recreational challenges and opportunities for enjoyment in every season of the year. Most of the activities enjoyed by families or individuals can be found right here in the County. Others are within a short driving distance.

Those who enjoy spending the day at a state park have plenty of choices. All are worth a visit. There's Caledonia State Park, Michaux State Forest, Codorus and Gifford Pinchot State Parks, Pine Grove Furnace Park in Pennsylvania, and Cunningham Falls and Catocin Mountain National Park in Maryland. These spots offer hours of swimming, boating, picnicking, fishing, camping, hiking, snowmobiling, and cross country skiing enjoyment. Each park or resort area is uniquely endowed with natural features, scenic beauty, and recreational facilities. The Appalachian Trail winds through Michaux State Forest and offers a marvelous hiking experience for the serious hiker or those just wanting to stroll through the woods.

The region's rural setting makes it ideal for all outdoor and fitness activities whether they be a stroll down a historic byway, jogging along a country road, or bicycling through Adams County's orchard country.

Those who enjoy golf are especially rewarded. There are more than a dozen challenging courses in Adams County, including one ranked #9 in 2006 in Golfweek Magazine. The Duramed Futures Tour-The Road to the LPGA made its debut in Gettysburg.

For those who enjoy playing organized sports every member of the family can join a team. Athletes of all ages can be involved in leagues for baseball, softball and soccer within most local communities. Adams County can rightfully boast a well organized network of sports activities with strong traditions of competition and sportsmanship.

Sports and fitness facilities and equipment are available at several sites, including community centers in several Adams County towns. Among them are Littlestown YMCA and the YWCA of Gettysburg & Adams County. Some facilities offer organized fitness and recreation programs, individual training and athletic activities, day care and numerous other programs for every member of the family and for all ages.

Professional sports can be found just a short distance away in Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The ballpark at Baltimore's Camden Yards can be easily reached in about 75 minutes.

Winter recreation can be plentiful for those who like ice skating, sledding, or taking to the slopes at Adams County's Liberty Mountain Resort or York County's Ski Roundtop. Snow tubing and cross country skiing are sports gaining popularity in the County.

Some of the best hunting and fishing in the country is right here in our backyard. This area is known for deer hunting and many smaller species abound. The numerous State Game Lands are open to the public. America's number one sport is fishing because an entire family can participate, and Adams County offers many fishing sites. Miles of waterways contain stocked and native trout, and many ponds hold bass and other fish. Neighboring parks also offer excellent fishing.

When it comes to being active, there is truly something for every season in Adams County, and something for everyone, whatever the interest.

Public Safety

Services you can count on

POLICE SERVICES

Most municipalities in Adams County are serviced by local police forces that have gained recognition for their effectiveness in controlling crime and maintaining proper surveillance. Adams County accounts for just .5% of the state's 33,744 arrests.* Some rural townships receive protection from the Pennsylvania State Police, while others have formed multi-municipal compacts. All forces in the County are tied into a central control unit and with the Pennsylvania State Police District Communities Center which is maintained in Gettysburg. Adams County crime statistics are far below the state and national averages, attesting to the capable operations of the local law enforcement authorities.

A community based organization, Crimestoppers, Inc., has been established to enlist the help of the public in providing tips on local criminal cases. Anonymity and confidentiality are guaranteed and rewards of up to $1,000.00 are given for information leading to arrests. Similar in format to other Crimestoppers programs across the country, the organization is funded by contributions from private citizens, corporations and service organizations.

(* PA Uniform Crime Reporting System 2005 online Annual Crime Report.)

FIRE SERVICES

Adams County is served almost entirely by volunteer fire and emergency medical services personnel. There are 24 volunteer fire companies within the County and 12 of these companies operate ambulance services. Insurance rates are substantially lower than those in surrounding communities that maintain paid fire departments. This is attributed to a fine record of quick response and outstanding service.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES

Along with 13 volunteer basic life support (BLS) or ambulance crews, Adams County is served by two advanced life support (ALS) units specially trained to provide extensive pre-hospital care on the scene. In addition, mutual aid or assistance is provided by numerous BLS and ALS units from surrounding counties whenever needed. The County is also served by three emergency air medical evacuation units which can transport seriously ill or injured persons to nearby trauma and specialty hospitals within minutes.

9-1-1 SERVICES

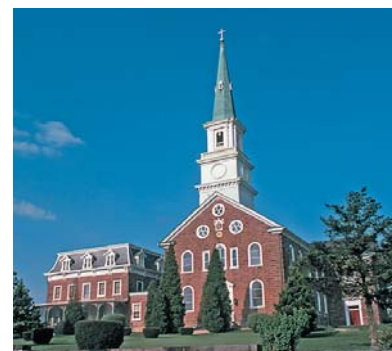

A state-of-the-art 9-1-1 emergency communications center was completed in 2003. Adams County's 9-1-1 center provides round-the-clock services to residents, visitors and those passing through the County by motor vehicle. The facility is equipped with the latest automated locating equipment; capable of locating cellular telephone users calling from mobile phones equipped with global position system (GPS) devices. 9-1-1 is a continued effort of the community to provide immediate and direct access to fire, police and medical services.

Worship

Where all are welcome!

Over 100 houses of worship, representing virtually every Christian denomination, can be found in Adams County. Jewish synagogues and Muslim mosques are located within a short driving time in nearby Cumberland and Dauphin Counties.

Many of the churches hold interfaith and interdenominational community services on holidays and other special occasions, and engage in community work to benefit the needy. In addition, a number of these congregations sponsor festivals, fairs and suppers that are open to the community-at-large.
