Man fishes in pothole

SECUNDA - Mr Johan van Dyk sits back and hopes to catch a fish in this pothole at the Sanlam Building parking area. If all else fails, hopefully the Govan Mbeki Municipality will come fix it amongst the many potholes the public have to dodge with their vehicles.

BEWARE!

SECUNDA - The local police want to sensitise the community about murders in Secunda.

"Although is categorised as a contact crime as well as a less police-able crime, when it is being committed and reported to the police, the loss of an individual's life becomes a major concern to the police," said Major General M. Kekana, cluster commander of the Secunda Police Station.

According to the police, the number of cases that are reported have increased and it has now become a priority to the police as well as a threat to the community. The victims of murder are often killed by family members, friends, boyfriends or girlfriends or someone who is known by the victim. In some cases it is criminal gang activities, organised crime and syndicates.

"Analyses have indicated that these crimes mostly take place at residential premises, on or next to the street, in the veld, at business premises and at or next to taverns or drinking places," said Major General Kekana.

According to Secunda Police, the instruments that were used to commit these murders are sharp instruments, firearms, knives and iron pipes.

Social and domestic related cases, alcohol and drug abuse also contributed to the escalation of this crime.

The police came up with and are implementing effective crime prevention strategies and operations to reduce murders. Structures such as community police forums (CPF) and non-profit organisations are forming part of this strategy apart from the reported plan and the re-establishment of this plan. The police conducted vehicle patrols and executed intensive investigations where they managed to effect some arrests and the perpetrators of this crime were heavily sentenced and others are still undergoing serious trials.

"According to the constitution of South Africa, everybody has a right to freedom of movement, freedom of protection and the right to life.

"Stay alert, stay alive and do not expose yourself to danger.

"To the culprits out there, your movements are monitored and soon you will be where you belong for life," said Major General Kekana.

Problem with police

KINROSS - Residents say Kinross Police Station is inactive and they do not feel safe anymore.

Residents are also concerned about a bottle store near the police station.

They say people from that bottle store do whatever they want right next to the police station and the police do nothing.

"Not so long ago there was a Dewali festival and participants were shooting fireworks in a residential area.

"We could not sleep because of the noise and reported the matter to the police, but they did not bother to do anything.

Capt Phil Matlala from Kinross Police Station said: "I doubt if that is true, because we have not received any formal complaints.

"I move around Kinross almost daily. About the bottle store next to us, we constantly monitor that place.

"We ask our colleagues from eMbalenhle and Evander to come help us with operations at that bottle store every second night.

"I ask members of the community to come to my office so that we can work together to fight crime."

Bishop Makofane reaches out to the unskilled youth eMBALENHLE - Bishop Piet Makofane said South Africa was in dire need of artisans.

Donald Green

This inspired him to train school leavers, with or without a Grade 12 certificate, as well as unemployed youth and semi-skilled labourers to be artisans.

Bishop Makofane trains them in welding, boilermaking, pipefitting and other related artisan skills at his church Umthunzi Wokuphumula during the week.

"My aim is to give this group a second chance to become productive citizens in the economy of the country."

Bishop Makofane began training a group of young people at his house in Extension 17 in 2007 after he had retired as an artisan.

He was asked by the group to train them when they were struggling to get places at training institutions.

Bishop Makofane bought equipment and has trained more than 28 groups of between 40 and 60 people thus far.

He said many young people are not aware that they can become artisans without having to go to university.

Bishop Makofane trains young people for several months and then does follow-ups to see how they are doing.

"Some get employment with contractors and others have opened their own businesses."

He encourages other church leaders to use their skills and talents to help unemployed people.

eMbalenhle Women's Network receives award eMBALENHLE - The local Women's Network members were the winner at the Mpumalanga Police Women's Network Annual Prestige Awards that was held in Hazyview recently.

They were recognised for their contributions towards the reduction of crime against women and children and poverty as well as for striving to continuously develop and promote a professional cadre of women in the police service.

Col Lizzy Mtungwa, station commander, was full of praise for her dedicated staff of 32 women that included officers, data typists and general workers.

"They have done outstanding work over and above their policing duties to uplift disadvantaged residents.

"It means a lot to me and the station management to have a dedicated team."

The annual awards were established in 2006, emanating from the Police Women's Network that is currently an affiliate of the International Association of Women Police.

It honours the valuable contributions made by women police officials and public service members who went beyond the call of duty.

The station has won various awards since 2010.

Hawkers selling wooden dog houses and other goods on the road between Secunda and Trichardt pose a problem for and are an irritation to residents living nearby.

Illegal hawkers still a problem

Jana Oosthuizen

SECUNDA - The Echo reported on the issue of illegal hawkers several times last year.

However it is still a problem. They are now trading illegally on the pavement of Oliver Tambo Street opposite the Secunda Mall. Hawkiers next to the road between Secunda and Trichardt irritate residents living nearby as they make a noise when they manufacture the wooden dog houses and other goods that they sell next to the road.

"It carries on like that on Saturdays and Sundays as well and we do not have peace and quietness.

"They do not have a toilet, so they just do their business there next to the road and it stinks when we are in our backyard," said a resident.

The CBD is another problem. Hawkiers sit on the pavement where Game used to be.

The police did get rid of the hawkiers in the CBD last year, but it seems they are back.

The head of marketing and communications of the Govan Mbeki Municipality, Mr Henry Masango, said: "Enforcement is an ongoing process and we hope to attend to the issue as highlighted.

"Any illegal activities of a hawker or business people will have to be investigated by law enforcement officers.

"In the spirit of Madiba, we need to be seen to be requesting the media to reach these unruly elements in preaching cooperation in trading in designated areas and keeping our town clean.

"It takes an informed society to do the right thing at the right place for the benefit of everybody.

"We call upon the hawkiers to cooperate with the municipality in this regard, we do not want to use force.

"The media has a role to educate people, education is the key.

"We are engaging continuously with the hawkiers to trade in designated areas and keep our environment clean, law enforcement is the last resort to those who do not want to comply."

Sewage is a huge concern in Trichardt.

One of the many potholes that has been covered with sand.

Trichardt's condition worsening

Kerry Bird

TRICHARDT - Municipal workers were covering potholes with sand as a temporary solution to the many potholes in and around Trichardt over the festive season.

The Ridge Times published an article "Trichardt residents have had enough" on 20 December about the poor conditions of the roads, running sewage and street lights that are not working.

Residents think that, though the potholes had been covered with sand, it is not the solution and that these holes need to be fixed properly. Many raised concerns that the filling of potholes with sand is a waste of money and resources being spent only for it to be washed away when it rains.

Spilling sewage is still a huge problem, causing a stench in and around businesses and residential areas.

Many sewerage problems lead to the forming of potholes where the sewerage will lay for days, most of the times even weeks.

A business owner said: "To date nothing has been done about the sewage problems and the sewage is still spilling in areas."

The Echo asked Mr Henry Masango, Communications and Marketing Manager of the Govan Mbeki Municipality, for a comment, but to no avail.

Flood does not scare squatters

Wayne van der Walt

BETHAL - Not even a natural disaster such as a flood could remove the squatters from the abandoned municipal building next to the N17 highway.

It seems as though everyone has tried, but no one has yet shown authority to remove the squatters who illegally stay at this site.

They do not have any sanitation facilities or electricity and a tap outside the building supplies them with free water.

The Govan Mbeki Municipality and the police have ordered them to leave, but to no avail.

Some residents believe that prostitutes stay in the building.

During a flood last year, rescue workers were dispatched to the scene when the bottom half of the building was filled with water.

The water however subsided and rescue workers and the police ordered the squatters to leave the area, they however ignored them and gave a show to bystanders who gathered along the N17.

"It seemed as though they were building a client base while we were trying to help them," a rescue worker said at the scene.

The municipality have been asked about plans to demolish this building on numerous occasions, but to no avail.

Mr Henry Masango, head of marketing and communications for the Govan Mbeki Municipality, said: "The municipality will have to investigate and revert back to the newspaper as soon as the information has been gathered."

Santa spoils orphans and vulnerables

Sifiso Mathebula

eMBALENHLE - The Family and Marriage Association of South Africa (Famsa) Highvld Ridge held early Christmas with 60 orphans and vulnerable (OVC) children in eMbalenhle on Friday, 6 December at Sasol Club.

The OVC programme has been running for the past seven months and the children have been exposed to many different life skills programmes throughout the program. Ms Cathrine Mogodi, social auxiliary worker, said: "This year we commemorated our National Woman's Day and Youth Day was celebrated with a youth indaba which exposed them to different career choices and we also commemorated Mandela's Day.

"The Christmas party like all the other functions was a success, because of all our volunteers and donors.

FOG is 'n nie-winsgewende orkes.

Nuwe orkes wil naam maak

BETHAL - FOG, ook bekend as Followers of God, is 'n nuwe Christelike orkes op Bethal.

Die orkes het spontaan ontstaan toe 'n klomp vriende en kerk-gangers een aand saam musiek gemaak het en besluit het om dit verder te neem.

Die naam het toe van Ultimate Extreme gegroei na Friends of God en eindelijk Followers of God.

Die groep bestaan uit mnr. Nathan Conquest (20) as bestuurder en sanger, me. Kendall Olivier (26), hoof-sanger, mnre. Hen-nie Olivier (48) op die dromme, Adriaan Rost (14) as sanger, Pete van Staden (21) op elektriese- en bokskitaar, Niel Rossouw (40) op baskitaar, me. Macherie Smith (16) en me. Sonja van der Bank (23) (addisionele lede) as sangers.

Dié groep het een ding in gemeen en dit is om siele vir God te wen.

Mnr. Olivier is ook voltyds die stasiebevelvoerder vir die Bethal Brandweerdienste.

Hy het gesê dat almal, maak nie saak hoe besige beroep 'n mens het nie, tyd aan die Here moet bestee.

Volgens hom is al die lede van FOG bekeerde Christene.

“Met die stigting van die orkes het almal weer opnuut hul liefde

vir die Here bekragtig.

“Ons bly sondige mense en in die orkes het ons vir onself doelwitte gestel.

“Ongelukkig word mens deur die wêreld besoedel, maar daarom het jy broers en susters om jou te help om op die regte pad te bly.”

Mnr. Olivier het gesê dat 'n insiatief deur een van die lede begin is om te verhoed dat kras taal deel van hul lewens uitmaak.

“Ons het 'n vloekblik.

Toe mnr. Olivier die blik wys, was dit nog leeg, wat daarop dui dat lede hard probeer om nie eerste oor die lyn te trap nie.

FOG oefen elke Vrydagaand en het in die drie weke sedert hulle stigting, reeds by 'n paar geleenthede onder andere by Jolly Jumpers, kerke en die nuwe tienerklub, Vat 5! opgetree.

Mense kan Christelike opgewekte en bekende sing-saam liedere verwag.

Omdat die orkes uit soveel lede bestaan, het mnr. Olivier gesê dat dit amper onmoontlik sal wees vir 'n optrede om gekanselleer te word weens een persoon wat dit nie kan maak nie.

Hul toekomsdoelwitte is groot verhoë, baie ligte, baie mense en om baie siele red.

“Ons is 'n nie-winsgewende orkes wat die Here wil dien.
