2004 PORSCHE CARRERA GT COUPE

CONSIGNMENT # 4248 VIN # WPOCA29834L001064

Throughout its storied history, Porsche blessed the motoring world with many homologation specials engineered to meet international competition requirements while remaining perfectly adaptable and legal for road use. The stunning Carrera GT supercar traces its roots as a planned successor to the 911 GT1 of the 1990s, with development commencing in 1999. While FIA rule changes frustrated its endurance-racing plans, Porsche forged ahead nonetheless and when production ended in May 2006, some 1,270 of the highly anticipated Carrera GTs were built at the new Porsche facility in Leipzig, Germany. Of those, just 604 were destined for America's hungry supercar market.

Powered by a mid-mounted 5.7-liter V-10 engine developing 605 hp, the Carrera GT delivers astounding, perhaps monstrous, performance. Acceleration from rest to 60 mph is achieved in just 3.8 seconds, with the 100-mph mark shattered in less than 7.0 seconds, en route to a top speed of 205 mph.

CONSIGNMENT # 4285 VIN # VF9SA25C08M795197

From its landmark 2005 introduction, the Bugatti Veyron EB 16.4 redefined the 'Supercar' concept in one stroke with its shocking performance, totally unique looks, and magnificent engineering, not to mention its sticker price approaching $2 million. Perfectly bridging the rich heritage of Le Patron, Ettore Bugatti, and his son Jean Bugatti, with the amazing technological achievements of the present day, the Veyron 16.4 was named in honor of Pierre Veyron, who achieved the historic marque's last great win by co-driving a Type 57C to victory at the 24 Hours of Le Mans in 1939.

Exquisite race-bred engineering, cutting-edge styling, bespoke luxury, and exclusivity continue to define Bugatti today. Following the acquisition and revival of the famous Bugatti name by Volkswagen AG in July 1998, Automobiles Ettore Bugatti would re-establish itself in Molsheim, France, its original and spiritual home. VW's Ferdinand Piech boldly announced that it would commence development of the world's ultimate series-production automobile, with a radical engine developing 1,000 horsepower and capable of top speeds in excess of 400 kilometers per hour (240 mph).

1967 FERRARI 330 GTC

CONSIGNMENT # 4034 VIN # 9159

Unveiled at the 1966 Geneva Salon, Ferrari's highly refined new 330 GTC was a svelte, high-speed coupe for two with luxurious and spacious passenger accommodations to match, in the finest Ferrari Grand Touring tradition. Pininfarina designed and built the subtle, elegant bodywork to exceptional standards at their Grugliasco facility near Turin. Major design cues included sleek frontal styling inspired by the 500 Superfast and a neat rear treatment reminiscent of the 275 GTS. The light, airy roof utilized exceptionally thin pillars and offered remarkably good visibility; this feature was unique to the 330 GTC and continued with its 365 GTC successor. Slender quarter-bumpers at all four corners, air extractors at the front fenders, and subtle "330" scripts rounded out the exterior.

Power was provided by a Colombo-derived, four-liter V-12 engine with a trio of twin-choke Weber carburetors and a single overhead camshaft per cylinder bank delivering an impressive SAE-rated 345 bhp output. The 330 GTC shared its basic chassis with Ferrari's 275 and featured four-wheel independent suspension and four-wheel disc brakes. Housed within a rear-mounted transaxle, the five-speed manual gearbox endowed the 330 GTC with near-perfect...

1970 OLDSMOBILE 442 W-30 CONVERTIBLE

CONSIGNMENT # 4057 VIN # 344670M265957

This incredible 1970 Oldsmobile 442 "W-Machine" is a three-owner car from new, with the consignor having purchased it in 1978. While a Vietnam veteran and UC Riverside student, Robert "Rug" Kazley knew exactly what he wanted and ordered a W-30 Oldsmobile 442 Convertible at Fullerton, California's Hansel Oldsmobile, he was forced to wait six months until March 4, 1970 to finally take delivery of his dream car.

Options specified by "Rug" included the W-30 455 cubic-inch engine, a four-speed manual transmission, 3.91:1 rear gears, and the extremely rare W-27 aluminum rear-axle carrier and housing cover. In fact, this 442 is the sole known example ordered new with the W-27 option, which was offered as a regular-production option only for 1970. Other items chosen by "Rug" included the Rally Package, 8-Track tape deck, and no floor console, with Galleon Gold paint, a white convertible top, white upholstery, steel wheels with "poverty" caps, and stripe delete. However, when the 442 was finally delivered to Hansel Oldsmobile, the car arrived with black side stripes anyway, consequently making the 442 a very rare three-color car.

1953 CHEVROLET CORVETTE ROADSTER 'ORIGINAL UNRESTORED'

CONSIGNMENT # 4018 VIN # E53F001083

From the outset, Chevrolet's groundbreaking Corvette was truly unique in its concept, design, and execution. Conceived by famed GM design chief Harley Earl and his team as a fiberglass-bodied American alternative to the hordes of open sporting cars arriving from the UK, the low and sleek new GM design incorporated a number of striking aircraft-inspired design elements and took shape as the EX-122 Motorama show car in 1952.

Eventually named Corvette, the new Chevrolet sports car remains one of the very few GM Motorama-era designs to progress to series-production with their basic space-age, show-car styling elements virtually unmodified. Representing a major leap of faith on the part of GM brass, over $1.5 million had been invested in the risky project by the time the Corporation's new sports car was ready for its highly anticipated public introduction.

Dubbed the Corvette "Dream Car", it debuted at the GM Motorama show held at the glamorous Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City and the results were truly astonishing.

1973 FERRARI DINO 246 GTS "CHAIRS & FLARES"

CONSIGNMENT # 4049 VIN # 5720

In the wake of Henry Ford II's frustrated attempt to acquire Ferrari during the early 1960s and the "Ford versus Ferrari" rivalry that followed, Enzo Ferrari turned to an alliance with Italian industrial giant FIAT. Spurred in 1965 by planned changes to FISA (Fédération Internationale du Sport Automobile) Formula 2 rules requiring production-based engines for 1967 and a 500-unit homologation requirement, a deal resulted where FIAT would produce a Ferrari-designed 2.0-liter V-6 engine.

A V-6 racing engine was already under development, with engineering work pioneered by Enzo Ferrari's late son Alfredo ("Dino"), who was an early advocate of small-displacement, V-6 technology. Vittorio Jano was appointed by Enzo Ferrari to resume the program and the resulting engines very successfully powered various Ferrari F1, F2, and sports-racing cars.

With the new V-6 in mind, an unpowered styling exercise graced the Pininfarina stand at the 1965 Paris Salon, named the "Dino 206 S Speciale." Its "Dino Berlinetta GT" successor debuted at Turin to rave reviews the next year...

1932 FORD SPCON PHAETON '1000 HP - 6 SPEED'

CONSIGNMENT # 4071 VIN # AZ327507

This magnificent vehicle is a hand-built custom construction representing a 1932 Ford Phaeton. It is not a stretch or modification. Almost seven years in the build and thousands of man-hours were dedicated to its completion. The engine is a highly modified Rolls-Royce-designed Meteor Mk IV V-12. Producing 1,600 lbs-ft, this engine delivers the torque of three big-block Chevrolet engines, while delivering an estimated 1,000 hp. The Meteor engine is essentially the famous Rolls-Royce Merlin aircraft engine without the supercharger. While most parts between the two engines are interchangeable, the Meteor has the added benefit of roller rockers actuating the four valves per cylinder. This power plant is a hybrid of the two engines and contains parts from both coupled with modern electronics and carburetion. The transmission is an Allison World 3000 six-speed automatic. The car features four-wheel power disc brakes and power steering. The visual impact of this beautiful engine under the hood has no peer.

The interior seats four in style and comfort. A concealed audio system delights the senses while sleek consoles and selective storage areas surround you. From the pilot's seat your scan moves across the banjo-style steering wheel to the Art Deco-styled instrument panel where critical engine parameters are displayed.

1968 ASTON MARTIN DB6 COUPE

CONSIGNMENT # 4012 VIN # 3365/L

Unveiled at the London Motor Show in October 1965, the Aston Martin DB6 advanced David Brown's "Gentlemen's Express" concept in every respect and today, it attracts rising collector interest for its excellent driving dynamics, race-bred performance, refinement, and iconic styling. Cloaked in hand-formed aluminum, retaining the highly attractive DB4GT/DB5 covered headlamps, and featuring an aero-efficient Kamm tail with integral spoiler, the DB6 improved upon its DB4 and DB5 forebears with a two-inch wheelbase extension allowing heightened comfort, useful rear seats, and improved headroom.

Comprehensive standard features and rich Connolly leather upholstery belied the impressive performance of the DB6 and its lusty 4.0-liter DOHC "six", which delivered 282 bhp and propelled the car from rest to 60 mph in about six seconds, with top speeds exceeding 140 mph. A five-speed ZF gearbox and four-wheel disc brakes were standard. In all, just 1,321 DB6 Coupes were produced along two distinct series between September and January 1971, with many originally owned by the era's top figures, including Mick Jagger, Paul (later Sir Paul) McCartney, HRH Prince Charles, Peter Sellers, and Twiggy.

2013 FERRARI 458 SPYDER

CONSIGNMENT # 4077 VIN # ZFF68NHA3D0190784

An entirely new design and the successor to Ferrari's brilliant F430, the 458 Italia debuted at the September 2009 Frankfurt Motor Show and immediately took pride of place as the sportiest V-8 model in the Ferrari line-up. With edgy Pininfarina styling influenced by the Enzo and Ferrari's Millechili (one thousand kilogram) concept car of 2007, the 458 Italia incorporates Formula One-derived technologies throughout and clearly benefits from the lessons learned on the racetrack. In particular, the 458 Italia's cutting-edge aerodynamic package includes deformable aeroelastic winglets in the front grille that deploy at higher speeds, providing increased frontal downforce as required.

In Ferrari nomenclature, the 458 designation refers to the car's 4.5-liter, eight-cylinder engine, which is mid-rear mounted and features Ferrari's first direct fuel injection system to produce 570 hp at 9,000 rpm, with peak torque reached at a useful 6,000 rpm. This performance is achieved while achieving reasonable fuel economy, with remarkably low carbon-dioxide emissions. Power is delivered by a dual-clutch, seven-speed gearbox, with acceleration from rest to 60 mph in just 3.4 seconds en route to a quoted 201-mph top speed.

1967 CHEVROLET CORVETTE 427/400 ROADSTER 'BLOOMINGTON GOLD'

CONSIGNMENT # 4096 VIN # 194677S100335

By 1967, Chevrolet's big-block Corvette continued its reign as the true king of the road. Brutally fast, with nimble handling and stopping power to match with its four-wheel disc brakes, the Corvette truly earned the title "America's Sports Car." Yes, it was expensive, but the Corvette was the car for buyers who wanted speed and for the all-out performance addict, the thundering Mark IV 427-cubic inch V-8 was offered in several levels of tune.

In "Corvettes, 1953 to 1988", Richard Langworth wrote "...the 1967 Stingray is arguably one of the best Corvettes ever built. All the styling clichés had been eliminated...four-wheel disc brakes allowed it to stop as well as go." Randy Leffingwell also wrote in his book, "Corvette - America's Sports Car", that in 1967, the Corvette "...was the best Stingray yet...and all the appearance bells and whistles, trim and shimmer was removed from the car, making it the purest form that the Stingray body ever achieved," adding "it was the best of the best."

1933 FORD WOODY COUPE 402 CI - AUTO

CONSIGNMENT # 4003 VIN # AZ312284

Beginning with a Squeeg's Kustoms concept and a Jimmy Smith rendering, construction of this striking Woody started with a '33 Ford Roadster cowl. Based on SAC frame rails patterned from the Vern Luce 3-Window Coupe with round-tube cross members, the hand-made steel body includes an inner steel-cage structure, plus wheel tubs, a rear rolled pan, a 4-piece hood, and Vee'd windshield posts. Power is provided by a Roush 401IR engine with a stainless exhaust system backed by a Ford AOD transmission feeding a Winters quick-change rear end. The wicked stance is courtesy of a 5-inch dropped front axle, and Wilwood disc brakes are all around. All fabrication, construction, assembly, and paint were performed by Squeeg's Kustoms in Chandler, Arizona, while the interior is trimmed in Gabe's leather upholstery. The "one off", hand-made maple body was the work of the well-known Doug Carr of The Wooden Carr, with too many one-off parts to list. Ready to cruise and enjoy, this striking woody has plenty of horsepower and provides an excellent ride to match.

1966 SHELBY GT350 FASTBACK '6S1747'

CONSIGNMENT # 4011 VIN # SFM6S1747

To his legions of fans, the late great Carroll Shelby requires little, if any, introduction. Following a stellar racing career which included overall victory at Le Mans with Aston Martin in 1959, he went on to even greater fame during the 1960s and beyond as America's most famous maker of high-performance automobiles. Through it all, his best-selling project of the 1960s was the original GT350, conceived and built to homologate Ford's new Mustang for SCCA road-racing competition and humble archrival Chevrolet's Corvette in the process.

The GT350 was immediately successful on both counts, exemplifying Ford's "Total Performance" campaign with three straight SCCA B-Production championships from 1965 through 1967 while conferring a virtually unbeatable high-performance image on the trendsetting new "ponycar". Several revisions for 1966 successfully maintained the basic high-performance essence of the GT350 while making it somewhat less demanding on its drivers and passengers.

1968 RACE CAR SPECIALTIES AA/FD DRAGSTER "STONE AGE MAN"

CONSIGNMENT # 4039 VIN # B.O.S.

While Southern California's Top Fuel ranks of the late 1960s included some of the wildest front-engine dragsters piloted by legendary personalities to match, George Hutcheson and "Stone Age Man" remain among the most memorable of all. Running at all the famous and now long-gone tracks including Bakersfield, Irwindale, Lions, OCIR, Pomona, Riverside, and San Fernando, "Hutch" and his beautiful, hard-charging "Stone Age Man" AA/FD drew huge crowds while his "all in" driving style and colorfully plumed racing helmet added an unforgettable element of pure showmanship.

Beginning as Mike Tingly's "Mistrial" AA/FD, "Stone Age Man" was based on an RCS chassis by Frank Huszar with full Tom Hanna bodywork and beautiful Bill Carter paintwork, with a blown and injected 392 Chrysler "Hemi" power. The car's unique name was courtesy of Frank Hedge, longtime friend who had lent George an old engine that was so old and durable that it must have come from the Stone Age.

1952 TOJEIRO BARCHETTA SPORTS RACER

CONSIGNMENT # 4127 VIN # RMS1

In the early 1950s, Cliff Davies commissioned John Tojeiro to build him a car with a two-liter, Bristol six-cylinder engine. Tojeiro, the established designer and builder of sports racing "specials," obliged with a car registered as "LOY 500," which was bodied by Panelcraft to look like a Ferrari 166MM Barchetta. The Bristol engine was developed from the BMW 328 and developed 128 horsepower, while the whole thing weighed only 1,180 pounds. Soon after, Tojeiro built an MG-powered Barchetta, LOY 501 and Vin Davison's LER 371, which was being built with a Lea-Francis engine. About the same period Tojeiro was working for Ernie Bailey at Buckland Bodyworks, which was supplying bodies for A.C. Bailey suggested that A.C. might be interested in Tojeiro's design.

Tojeiro borrowed Cliff Davies' Bristol-powered LOY 500 and drove down to the A.C. works at Thames Ditton. A.C. wanted a car they could display at the upcoming 1953 Earls Court Motor Show, but there weren't any available, until Tojeiro talked Davison into lending them LER 371. A.C. fitted Davison's car with one of its own engines, painted it blue, re-licensed it as TPL 792 and introduced it as the A.C. Ace roadster. The model attracted Carroll Shelby's interest, and the rest, as they say, is history.

When the Arrow body was stripped for refinishing, evidence was found of repairs made following the 1981 NHRA Winternationals, where this car was Bernstein's spare and the roof was famously removed and grafted onto Raymond Beadle and Harry Schmidt's Blue Max.

Based on the striking one-off convertible that wowed Edsel B. Ford's friends in Florida during the winter of 1938-1939, the Lincoln Continental was a bold design statement and a clear demonstration to archrival Cadillac of just how seriously Lincoln was competing for what was left of the American luxury-car market. Styled by famed designer Eugene T. "Bob" Gregorie in collaboration with Edsel Ford, the Continental continues as an unqualified design benchmark today. Equipped with a smooth and powerful V-12 engine, destined to be the last such unit offered in an American car, the Continental clearly reflected Edsel Ford's penchant for European-inspired lines, elegant simplicity, and the restrained yet highly effective use of decorative brightwork. The art and design community agreed wholeheartedly, with a 1941 Continental included in the groundbreaking "8 Automobiles" exhibition during the autumn of 1951 at New York's Museum of Modern Art.

Heavily influenced by Jaguar's XK120 sports roadster and the succession of exciting "dream cars" created by most American manufacturers during the early 1950s, Packard commissioned several interesting concept cars of its own with an eye to possible series-production. Beginning in 1949 and 1952 with the sporty Monte Carlo hardtop designs by the Henney Body Company, which was Packard's supplier of professional-car bodies, Henney designer Richard Arbib penned the Pan American concept which debuted at New York in 1952. Based on a stock 1951 Packard Series 250 convertible and featuring a rakishly channelled and sectioned body, it cast an elegant yet sporting profile and featured top-quality appointments. Despite its many stylistic advantages, however, high projected pricing halted the exciting project after some six Pan Americans were built.

- Many unique styling cues reminiscent of prewar coachbuilt roadsters
- True Roadster with fully skirted front and rear fenders and custom mouldings
- A true "one-off" with post-restoration display at National Packard Museum

A true work of art with many unique design cues, this period custom was conceived in 1948 as a prototype in hope of convincing Packard Management to offer it as an option to high-end buyers. The project stalled and with the short-lived initial postwar Packard design, the car sat unfinished for many years. It was finally completed with a complete "nut-and-bolt" restoration completed in 2007 and then displayed for much of the intervening years at the National Packard Museum.

We would like to remind potential buyers that the descriptions of the automobiles at the sale are not warranties and that each auto is sold "as is, where is." Russo and Steele encourages potential buyers to inspect the vehicles before bidding to ensure to their satisfaction the condition and repairs or restoration. All risk of loss or damage passes to the buyer upon the fall of the gavel.

It is suggested that you pre-register your bidders credentials in order to facilitate your bidding experience.

GENERAL BIDDING

Russo and Steele reserves the ability, as a courtesy to our consignors, to position vehicles offered in an order most conducive to their sale. Please note, vehicle consignment numbers in our auction catalog are for reference only and hold no bearing to the order in which they will appear on the auction block. The auctioneer will accept bids from bidders present in the sales room only. In the spirit of maintaining the integrity of the Russo and Steele Auction, absentee bidding will be honored only if the absentee bidder has a representative in the salesroom bidding on their behalf. In addition, as we believe the collector automobile hobby is driven by the personal passions of the attending enthusiasts, no internet bidding will be accepted.
