Teacher faces porn accusation

Leigh Hodgson

A Dinwiddie Primary School teacher has been suspended following allegations that she showed pupils a pornographic movie.

The matter was reported to the Germiston SAPS on Thursday, March 20, by a pupil's mother, and a case of child pornography was opened against the teacher.

"Yes, we opened the case and transferred it to the Child Protection and Sexual Offences Unit for investigation.

"It is alleged that a female teacher made pupils watch a pornographic movie on her laptop at the school," said WO André de Jager, the spokesman for the Germiston police.

A 10-year-old girl told her mother and she opened a case.

The girl told her mother the teacher had taken three other children to the school's storeroom to watch the movie.

"She told me that the teacher asked them if they knew what porn was and played the movie," said the mother, who cannot be named to protect the identity of her child.

"We are extremely concerned about these allegations," said Gauteng

Education Department spokesman Phumla Sekhonyane.

"The safety of children is a priority for us.

"We will put the teacher on a precautionary suspension and institute an independent investigation into this matter."

She added that the department would also ensure that the school co-operates fully with the Child Protection and Sexual Offences Unit's investigation.

The GCN also called Dinwiddie Primary School for comment.

"Nothing has been proven yet, as the matter is still under investigation," said a spokesman for the school.

"The teacher has since been suspended, as a precaution.

"The school will release an official statement on the matter once the investigation has been concluded."

Murderer arrested while wearing victim's shoes

A 34-year-old man was arrested on Monday, March 24, for a murder that took place in the Makause informal settlement. The arrest was made after officers were called to the scene of the murder by a concerned resident. Upon their arrival, they found the body of a man lying face down in the dirt. Officers inspected the body and noticed that he had a number of wounds to his upper body.

Officers began their investigation, following several leads, which lead them to the accused. When officers tracked down the man believed to be responsible for the murder they found that he had a number of the victim's personal items in his possession. Officers also discovered that he was wearing the victim's shoes, which still had traces of blood on them. The man was arrested and taken to the Primrose Police Station.

The accused has since appeared in the Germiston Magistrates Court, where his case was postponed for trial.

The Primrose SAPS arrested a 32-year-old Makause informal settlement resident, after he had assaulted a police officer. The arrest was made last Wednesday, March 26, when officers attempted to serve a protection order against the accused. "As soon as officers arrived at the man's house he became violent, attacking anyone who got in his path, including an officer who attempted to subdue him," said Sgt Styles Maome, communications officer for the Primrose police. Officers struggled with the accused and after several minutes were able to arrest him and load him into their patrol vehicle. The man was transported to the Primrose Police Station, where he was held pending his appearance in the Germiston Magistrates Court.

Germiston South Primary turns 90

The school, located in Selkirk and Joubert streets, kicked off the celebrations last Thursday, March 27, with a cake decorating competition and fun day.

Each class was asked to decorate a birthday cake.

The children were then treated to a day filled with jumping castles and other fun activities. The celebrations will continue with a May Tea, Spring Ball and school bring and braai, to name but a few. "We are looking forward to a very exciting year," said Lanette Frouche, principal of Germiston South Primary School.

Mayor delivers State of the City Address

Executive mayor of the Ekurhuleni Metropolitan Municipality Clr Mondli Gungubele delivered the State of the City address last Wednesday, March 26.

The mayor opened his "Strengthening social maturity by advancing social cohesion in pursuit of a prosperous and, therefore, livable city"-themed speech with a dedication to all those who suffered for justice and freedom in South Africa's years of struggle.

"After three centuries of institutionalised racism, our society is no longer defined by negative notions of diversity; on the contrary, we celebrate diversity, and find unity in it," he said.

The mayor touched on a number of topics, including:

- Ekurhuleni is a better place today than it was in 1994.
- Highlights of 20 years of service.
- Improvements to roads throughout the metro, including lighting projects throughout the metro.
- Housing developments throughout the metro.
- Improvements to the Ekurhuleni Emergency and Disaster Service.
- Improvements in both the metro's EMPD and SAPS services.

- The metro's achievements since 2011.

- Initiatives to re-industrialise Ekurhuleni.

- Initiatives to re-urbanise and re-mobilise, to ensure a livable Ekurhuleni.

- Initiatives to re-generate Ekurhuleni.

- Initiatives to re-govern Ekurhuleni.

"These are humble steps to account for our efforts to reinforce, entrench and consolidate conditions of perpetual social maturation, since it is the only way our dream of a common destination as South African humanity can be realised," Gungubele explained.

"This is the cause for which great men and women of our country, regardless of colour or creed, made sacrifices.

"This is the cause for which our generation cannot afford to fail.

"This year, 2014, is a historic and exciting year in more ways than one.

"The single most important reason of all is the fact that our democracy is coming of age.

"We will be going to the polls on May 7; it is our hope that especially the 'born-free' generation takes advantage of this hard won right, by showing up at the polls to vote."

Sports are Pain Free Once More

"My name is Jono and I am 41 years old. I would like to share my Lifetones story with you.

I have always been a very active person. I play league squash, mountain bike every weekend and paddle too with the Dusi being a highlight of my sporting calendar. I was frustrated to discover, as I got older, that pain in my knees forced me to slow down my active lifestyle. I stopped my squash altogether as the jarring effect of my knees whilst playing was becoming too painful. I also found myself waking up in the mornings feeling stiffness in my joints. Although I am a positive person, I was beginning to have visions of having to cut back on all my sports activities and feared advanced age issues setting in. Then I met Vincent Tones, the developer of Lifetones, and heard about the benefits of taking this product. Initially I thought only people with muscular ailments, arthritis or gout took the product, but after reading up on the product and seeing the wonderful testimonials on the website, I decided to give it a try. I can honestly say that Lifetones is a product that I would recommend to my friends and fellow sportsmen. I can certainly feel the difference when I wake up in the morning: with no more stiffness in my joints, it's lekker to get up! I am back to playing squash regularly with no painful knees and actively enjoying all my other sports. Old age will have to wait, thanks to Lifetones."

Primrose police advise the elderly on library safety

Sgt Styles Maome, with members of the Crime Prevention Youth Desk and some of Germiston's older residents, at the Primrose Library, where the Primrose SAPS and the Youth Desk recently hosted a Library Safety Day, with special focus on the safety of senior citizens.

Picks used by the illegal miners were confiscated during a recent team operation.

Illegal miners are arrested

On Thursday, March 27, the Germiston SAPS hosted an operation.

This was a combined effort of the Germiston SAPS, EMPD, the Department of Home Affairs, Emergency Services, SAPS Organised Crime Unit, TRT Unit, Elsburg SAPS and the Johannesburg SAPS K9 Dog Unit.

The main objective of the operation was to arrest a number of illegal miners found in Germiston West.

Upon arrival, at the scene where the miners had last been seen, members acted quickly to surround the area, to prevent the miners from running away.

In total, 24 miners were arrested.

Eleven of them were charged with possession of gold concentrate, under the Illegal Mining Act.

The other 13 were charged by the Department of Home Affairs and detained at the Germiston Police Station, as they are illegal immigrants.

"All the implements and generators found at the scene were confiscated and brought to Germiston Police Station and handed in as exhibits," said WO André de Jager, spokesman for the Germiston SAPS.

"This operation was executed after a lengthy period of investigation and information-gathering.

"The Operation was a success and Brigadier Samuel Thambo, station commander of the Germiston SAPS, congratulated all who played a role in the operation."

The illegal miners' generators were found and confiscated during a recent operation. All confiscated items were transported to the Germiston Police Station, as evidence.

Woman arrested on dual charges

On Thursday, March 27, members of the Germiston SAPS conducted a stop-and-search operation in the Germiston CBD.

Officers decided to enter a house in Power Street and, during their search, found a woman who had crates of liquor in her room.

When asked what she was doing with the liquor, the 22-year-old woman told officers that she was selling it on behalf of her brother.

Officers continued to search the house and found a small bag, containing 2.9g of dagga.

"The woman was arrested and is charged with possession of dagga and dealing in liquor without a licence," said WO André de Jager, spokesman for the Germiston SAPS.

"Officers also seized 36 bottles (750ml) of beer.

"The suspect has been detained at the Germiston Police Station, pending her appearance in the Germiston Magistrates Court.

"Brig Samuel Thambo congratulated Consts Eric Mkwana, Jacob Lebelo, Sandile Mbatha, Noko Mashamaite, Patrick Marakalala, Kenneth Ndou, Ndlandla Mtethwa and Thebogo Nchoung for their diligent work."

Germiston SAPS arrest drug dealer

Members of the Germiston SAPS, in conjunction with the Johannesburg SAPS K9 Dog Unit, recently mounted a search operation.

The operation focused on searching suspected places known for drugs.

In Driehoek Road, the team searched the premises of a suspected drug dealer and found drugs in his personal possession and in his shop. The 43-year-old accused was found with small bags containing a white substance, suspected to be CAT.

In total, nine units with an estimated street value of R5 000 of this substance were confiscated.

"The suspect was arrested and charged with dealing in drugs, and was detained at the Germiston Police Station," said WO André de Jager, spokesperson for the Germiston SAPS.

These two lucky women, Megan-Lee McKenna from Alberton (left) and Rhida Robbertze from Benoni, will go on another date with our local bachelor Zak Ludick on April 4 at Carnival City.

Local bachelor chooses his top two girls for date

ZAK Ludick, the Caxton East/South Rand local bachelor, from Springs, has chosen the two lucky women he would like to see for his next date in our local bachelor competition.

Megan-Lee McKenna, from Alberton, and Rhida Robbertze, from Benoni, are the two lucky women who will go on another date with Zak, together with his parents, on April 4, at Carnival City.

Following his first date with the top four girls, on March 22, Zak was afforded another opportunity to get to know the girls a little better on March 25, on an intimate date at one of the restaurants at Carnival City.

On that occasion Zak took a liking to Megan and Rhida's bubbly and engaging personalities.

The following date, on April 4, will again take place at Carnival City, with Zak and the two women, together with his parents, to help him with his last choice.

This date will lead us to the final date on the weekend of April 12, when Zak will go out with his final choice for an evening of romance, planned just for them, at Carnival City's top hotel.

Carnival City Casino has proudly sponsored all five the dates for the local bachelor and his top women.

The prizes comprise the romantic date and a brand new Samsung S4 cellphone, proudly sponsored by Samsung and Hirsch's Meadowdale, one each for Zak and his final woman.

Caxton's local bachelor competition is brought to you by Caxton East/South Rand, in partnership with Carnival City and Hirsch's Meadowdale.

For up-to-date information on the competition, visit www.joburgeast.getitonline.co.za.

Ladies enjoy their 1920's tea

The women from the two Cora Erasmus Complexes enjoyed a wonderful 1920-themed tea party, last Wednesday, March 26, at the Rest-a-While Community Centre for the Aged. Many of the women even dressed according to the theme. "Thank you to Mike and Andy from the 'Samaritans', who treated the women from the Cora Erasmus Complexes to a wonderful day," said Wendy Morgan.

Residents bring concerns to the metro

The GCN recently received an email from a concerned citizen, who wishes to remain unnamed, alerting us to the illegal dumping that is taking place on Radio Road and Black Reef Road.

The email read: "I live in an estate called Albemarle Estates, located in Black Reef Road.

"There are smaller complexes within the estate.

"If you pass our complex and you enter into Radio Road, you will find a large and unsightly amount of filth, rubbish and, as a recent addition, squatters.

"There are no barriers or signs preventing people in cars from throwing/dumping their rubbish there."

The GCN was able to contact the metro for comment.

"The Ekurhuleni Metropolitan Municipality will attend to all illegal dumping in the affected area as soon as possible," said Lebogang Ramashala, from the metro's Department of Communications and Brand Management.

The second concern residents of the area have is the street lights in Black Reef Road.

Residents claim that, in the last six years, these street lights have been functional for less than a month in total.

"The poles are skew and the wires are hanging all over the show; this is a great concern," said one resident.

The GCN was also able to get comment from the metro on this matter.

"The Ekurhuleni Metropolitan Municipality has been to the site," said Ramashala. "Breakers were off and were switched back on.

"However, according to the metro's by-laws, it is not the responsibility of the metro to maintain the lights inside the private complex.

"In Black Reef Road, towards Radio Road, a few poles are skew and need to be straightened.

"The relevant section within the Energy Department has been notified and will attend to the matter."

The residents are eager to have their concerns dealt with, now that the metro has been notified.

Call for nominations for Gauteng Sport Awards

This year's Gauteng Sports Awards will commemorate Gauteng's 20 years of excellence as the leading sporting province, in keeping with the "20 years of democracy" theme.

The 2014 awards celebration will be hosted on June 7, in Midrand.

In keeping with the theme, which has seen the nation pause to celebrate the dawn of democracy in South Africa through various activities, this year's Gauteng Sports Awards will celebrate the province's contribution towards building South Africa's social cohesion through sport.

Announcing the launch of the 2014 edition of the awards, MEC for Sports and Recreation Lebogang Maile said it was important that the province celebrate its critical role in realising the freedom we enjoy today as a country. "Gauteng has hosted a number of important global sporting and cultural events, which have helped to boost social cohesion and unity in this country," said Maile.

We, therefore, urge the people of Gauteng to join us at this year's awards, to celebrate that contribution and recognise their sporting heroes."

Launched in 2010, the Gauteng Sports Awards recognise and reward the province's sports stars for their efforts in keeping the passion of sport alive in the hearts of millions of South Africans, through their efforts in local and international sporting events.

To this end, the annual awards honour individuals and teams who have excelled both on and off the field.

Gauteng is home to many stadia and sporting grounds that hosted opening and closing ceremonies, kick-offs of international games such as the 2010 FIFA World Cup, 2013 Africa Cup of Nations and the 2003 Cricket World Cup.

"It's moments such as that first goal by Bafana Bafana at the FNB Stadium in the opening game of the 2010 FIFA World Cup that unified the nation; it's due to that basis and other similar examples that we say sports start in Gauteng," added Maile.

While officially announcing the call for nominations, the MEC also took the opportunity to reveal a list of 2014 Gauteng Sports Awards Ambassadors.

The list includes television and radio personality Kwena Moabelo, actress Hlubi Mboya, young golfers Raylyn Anthony and Caleb George, radio personality, William Lehong, footballer Lehlohonolo Majoro and television personality Boitumelo Thuso.

Since their launch, the Gauteng Sports Awards have seen tremendous growth.

In fact, in 2013, the number of nominations submitted doubled, from 92 to 190.

Some of last year's biggest winners include Caster Semenya in the Sportswoman of the Year category and Cameron van der Burgh, who walked away with the coveted Gauteng Sportsman of the Year award. In the same year, the awards introduced the highly popular Gauteng Sport Fan of the Year award.

To further ease the submission of entries, nominations can also be submitted electronically through this link: http://gsa.wonderforms.co.za/modules/form\_builder/published/sportmanoftheyear.php

Will you cross the line?

On April 13, The Birchwood Hotel and OR Tambo Conference Centre will host the fourth annual Birchwood Cross the Line Half-Marathon.

Whether you're a leisurely runner or a trained athlete, the event caters for the whole family, with options of a 5km, 10km and 21.1km route available.

As an added incentive, break the current record for the 21.1km route and The Birchwood will double the prize money.

The times to beat are available on The Birchwood's Facebook page.

Online entries are now open and print flyers are available at The Birchwood Hotel for collection, and can be dropped off at any one of the following venues:

Birchwood Hotel: View Point Road, Boksburg - 011 897-0000.

The Sweat Shop Dunkeld: West Centre, cnr Bompas Road and Jan Smuts Avenue - 011 325-2567/8.

The first 1 000 pre-entries for the 21.1km and 10km routes will receive a complimentary sports tog bag and water bottle.

Ensure that you have your race licence to take part, as well as proof of entry and payment on the day.

Temporary licences are available for purchase.

Build-up and event results will be constantly updated on The Birchwood Facebook and Twitter pages, as well as through their hash tag (#crosstheline).

Local athlete conquers championships

Christelle Grobler, a Grade Six pupil at Laerskool Oosterkruin, took part in the South African National Primary Schools Athletics Championships, on March 19-22, in Paarl, in the Cape.

Grobler, u-12, represented Gauteng Province in shot put and discus, where she won the u-12 shot put event when she threw 11.40m and was crowned as the South African National Champion.

She also took part in the discus event, where she made the podium in second position, with a distance of 31.55m, and was awarded a silver medal.

Her shot put distance of 11.40m broke the record of 11.17m that she threw on March 2, at the Gauteng Championships.

What made the SA Championships special for Grobler is that she came fourth in discus, at the Gauteng Championships, but second at the SAs, showing growth, development and improvement in her performance.

The youngster received 934 Athletics Performance Evaluation (APE) points for discus and 924 APE performance points for shot put.

The APE points she received for her individual performances, together with her teammates' performances, contributed to Gauteng being ranked the number one team for 2014 after the overall points were calculated.

Overall points standing:

- Gauteng Province, 138 949 points
- Western Cape Province, 138 542 points
- Free State Province, 95 214 points
- North West Province, 75 942 points
- Mpumalanga Province, 50 700 points
- Eastern Cape Province, 45 785 points
- Limpopo Province, 34 902 points
- Northern Cape Province, 13 040 points
- KwaZulu-Natal, 7 839 points

Jaemi Wellish makes waves

St Catherine's School, which started canoeing only last year (2013), at Germiston Lake, is proud of the achievements of Grade Six student, Jaemi Wellish.

Wellish participated in her first regatta on February 1, at Homestead Dam, in Benoni, taking second place in the 2 000m event and third in the 500m race.

She then took part in another two races, on March 1, at Germiston Lake, placing third in the 1 000m race and second in the 200m sprint.

She also took second place overall for her performance in her age group.

Her latest races were held on March 21 and 22, at Roodeplaat Dam, just outside of Pretoria, and formed part of the Gauteng Championship.

Wellish competed in the 500m, where she took second place, the 200m, where she placed third, and the 5 000m, where she again placed third.

She went on to place third overall in her age group, and received a bronze medal.

Wellish is not only making a splash in canoeing, but in sailing, as well.

She took part in her first sailing regatta on March 15 and 16, at Germiston Lake, and placed 23rd overall.

St Catherine's School, which started offering canoeing and sailing as school sports, last year, is proud of the achievements of Grade Six student Jaemi Wellish. Here Wellish smiles happily as she shows some of the medals she has won.

Young talent: Laerskool Oosterkruin's Christelle Grobler holds the two medals she received at the South African National Primary Schools Athletics Championships, on March 19-22, in Paarl, in the Cape.

Come and run for a good cause

Germiston Callies Harriers are proud to host another top class event in the city.

The Harcourts Alan Robb Road Race will take place on April 6, at the Germiston Stadium.

If you are not fit enough to participate in the 15km or 32km event, there is a 5km Fun Run/Walk and it would be awesome to see you, your family and friends there.

All the proceeds from the Fun

Run will be donated to a charity, The Kitty and Puppy Haven, so come along and support a great cause.

For more information, contact André Berrange on 082 826 1961.

A real 'gem' of a golf club

The Germiston Golf Club recently hosted more than 120 entrants at their 2014 Club Championships.

The 36-hole competition, played on March 15 and 16, almost didn't happen due to heavy rains saturating the course.

However, thanks to the sheer will and determination of the on-course staff, headed by golf director Darren Millington, not only was the course ready for play, but the field was rewarded with two days of uninterrupted sunshine.

With players ranging in age from 14 to 75, "The Gem"

(as the Germiston Golf Club is affectionately known) again proved why golf is a game that can be enjoyed by one and all.

Newly crowned club champion Tony Coyle won with an amazing score of 144 (level par) for two rounds.

Nicolene Cambanis, GGC's women's club captain, walked away as the women's club champion, while the senior club champion title went to local businessman André Hugo, from Andre's Panel and Paint.

"Events such as these would not be possible without generous sponsors, so we would like to thank our main sponsor, Mercury Plastics, as well as Mcubed Services for their support," said Germiston Golf Club captain James Johnston.

Festivities continued well after the prize-giving on the Sunday, as members and their families tucked into a superb buffet and enjoyed sundowners, with great music and a jumping castle for children.

If you're keen to become part of the second oldest golf club in the country, as well as a member of a golfing family unlike any other, contact The Gem on 011 827 7818.

Dian Dreyer (left) shakes hands with Tadiwanashe Chipfakacha after one of their junior monthly tournaments held at the Germiston Stadium on March 15.

Players make progress at club

Puleng Sekabate

The Ekurhuleni Tennis School of Excellence held one of their monthly junior tournaments at the Germiston Stadium, on March 15.

The juniors played only singles, and the boys played with the girls, as this helps them to get out of their comfort zones and gives them a bit of a challenge.

"These monthly tournaments improve the skills of the players and, another thing I like about the children, is that they look forward to these tournaments and treat them like any other competition," said head coach of the club Loyiso Matsha.

"Their enthusiasm enables us, as their coaches, to judge their performances."

Matsha has already spotted some of the strengths of the players.

"Dian Dreyer excelled at the tournament," he said.

"This youngster has been playing tennis for a year and his standard has improved tremendously; he has the ability to go all the way to higher levels.

"All our players show increasing growth and I am happy with their performances and high morale."

The results of the tournament are:

□ Dian Dreyer -22 points.
□ Tadiwanashe Chipfakacha -14 points.

□ Martinique Davids -13 points.

□ Jennah Davids - 4 points.

□ Jaydan Rooskrantz - 8 points.

□ Sethembile Myeni - 8 points.

In other news, the club will host a tennis clinic at the Germiston Stadium, on March 31 and April 1.

Beginners and intermediate players, aged seven to 14, are welcome, and the fee for both days is R100 a player.

To round off the clinic, a mini tournament will be played and prizes are up for grabs.

To secure a position at the clinic contact Matsha before or on March 30.

Skills and techniques players can expect to learn and enjoy, at both the clinic and the club, are tennis etiquette and good tennis manners; control points of all the basic strokes; physical training; technical and tactical training; rules of tennis; water intake and recommended nutrition; tennis general knowledge.

The club is always open to new players; there is a registration fee and the players use their own racquets.

For more information, or to register your child, contact Matsha on 071 381 6226.

Come to the golf day fund-raiser

The Eastern Gauteng Pool Association will host a Golf Day on April 3, at the ERPM Golf Club, in Boksburg.

The event serves as a fundraiser for the South African Ladies Pool A2.

The entry fee is R1 400 per fourball, with a free spotter or caddy per fourball, and there is a fee for additional caddies.

The tee off time will be from 11am and golf carts are priced at R250.

People interested in participating are encouraged to book before or on March 28, or to sponsor a hole for R1 000.

Join in the fun and support this initiative.

Exciting prizes, dinner and fun are among the things that one can expect to enjoy.

Remember to pay before you play.

African Ring, in association with Golden Gloves and Emperors Palace, proudly presented the Thunder Struck Box and Dine event on March 25, in the Emperors Palace Centre Court.

With a three-course meal and seven bouts to enjoy, the fans had quite a treat.

The first bout was a lightweight contest between Shone van Schalkwyk and Mandla Sibusiso.

Both fighters seemed nervous and analysed each other's punches throughout the first round.

In the second round, they were powered up, with Sibusiso going in with full force and landing straight, firm punches. The punches were accurate, which came as indication that he had already analysed his opponent.

As van Schalkwyk started feeling the blows from Sibusiso he looked weary and punched back in retaliation, but without aim.

Weak knees were evident in van Schalkwyk in the last minutes of the second round, and it came as no surprise when he refused to come back for the third round, which resulted in the energetic Sibusiso winning the bout.

The shortest bout of the night was the bantamweight title fight contested by Ronald Malindi and Meshak Matabula.

These two fighters went straight into it, leaving no room for observation -- they seemed to know what to do.

With a number of hook and up punches from Malindi, Matabula was overwhelmed and it showed as he started to bleed and offered no defence against the blows.

This resulted in a technical knockout (TKO) two minutes and 39 seconds into the first round, and a win for Malindi.

The middleweight title bout, sched-

Willis Baloyi ducks a punch from Stone van Aswegen at the Thunder Struck Box and Dine held at Emperors Palace on March 25.

A bout between Willis Baloyi and Stone van Aswegen at Emperors Palace during the Thunder Struck Box and Dine.

uled between Josh Roos and Phillip Dlamini, was cancelled, because Dlamini was unable to attend.

Josh Roos and Anton Gilmore got into the ring just to be acknowledged, and Zane Mundell and William Bankisi battled for the junior middleweight title.

It was a four-round bout and it went to the last round; this was a great fight, with both boxers showing good skill.

The winner was crowned according to a split decision of 36-40, 39-37 and 37-39 points, in favour of Bankisi.

Boksburg's Stone van Aswegen fought Willis Baloyi in a six-round 64.5kg catchweight title bout.

This was one of the bouts that saw the audience completely neglecting their meal, because no one wanted to miss a single punch in the adrenalin packed fight.

Baloyi and van Aswegen are skilled fighters and they had a fair and neat first round.

It was in the second round that Baloyi started to corner van Aswegen at every chance he got, but van Aswegen was able to escape and fight back with firm jabs.

The one mistake that van Aswegen did make was to allow Baloyi to corner him, because Baloyi took this as an opportunity to throw as many punches as he could.

Fans rooting for van Aswegen kept encouraging him to stay clear of corners. The Boksburg fighter listened and he started to gain more dominance in the third and fourth rounds, as he also started to apply more skill and technique.

This delivered yet another split decision, of 59-57, 58-56 and 56-58 points, in favour of Boksburg's van Aswegen.

The heavyweight bout was fought between Martin Makabu (DRC) and Cecil Smith, from Hillbrow.

This bout was a pro-debut fight for both boxers.

Smith went in full force in the first round, striking and jabbing and showing a lot of energy.

Makabu was calm and analysed his opponent throughout the first round, but the audience kept encouraging him to stand on his toes, jab and not stand still.

In the second round, Makabu showed why he remained calm in the first: he wanted to observe his opponent's weaknesses and strength and, at the same time, tire him out.

This worked for him, because, at the beginning of the second round, he was striking hard and landing firm blows that weakened Smith.

Makabu finally hit Smith with one straight punch that drove him to his knees and drew blood.

That was Makabu's winning punch, because Smith then seemed weaker and, in one minute and 19 seconds into the second round he was finished.

The seventh and last bout of the evening was a 75kg catchweight bout between Dwayne Combrink and Simon Mokoena. This was another straightforward bout, because Combrink dominated the fight from the get go.

He double jabbed his opponent and left no room for attack, leaving Mokoena, who still seemed to be analysing, completely defenceless.

Mokoena was cornered throughout most of the first round and all he could do was to defend, which also seemed to be a struggle, as he had to recover from the blows.

Combrink won the bout one minute and 19 seconds into the second round.

Double dose of urban chic

SEAN NURSE

The previous-generation BMW 1 Series Coupé was a successful range with 150 000 units sold globally. In keeping with the Bavarian brand's current nomenclature practice, the new version of this model has gained a '2' badge at the rear, something last seen in 1968 when the BMW 2002 was released. Enthusiasts will remember the 125kW 2002 turbo, which is still a cult car today.

But the new 2 Series is an important vehicle for BMW, as it takes the fight to the likes of the Audi A3 sedan and Mercedes-Benz CLA, although the 2 Series is a two-door-only model.

In terms of dimensions, the 2 Series is 110mm longer than its hatch sibling with a 30mm wider wheelbase and 32mm wider body than its predecessor. This means that it is more capacious inside and offers a 390-litre boot (up by 20 litres).

There will be a choice of three engines initially. The range starts with the 220i Coupé and is powered by a 135kW/270Nm version of BMW's 2.0-litre four-cylinder petrol engine. It takes just seven seconds to sprint to 100km/h and uses a claimed 6.0 litres/100km in automatic guise. The 220d produces the same power as its petrol counterpart albeit with 380Nm of torque. The oil-burner's consumption goes as low as 4.2 litres/100km with emissions of less than 120g/km.

Having driven these vehicles for an extended period, I can report that there is noticeably more shove in the 2 Series thanks to the power increases. Overall, both models are supremely refined, sporty and economical. I just wish there was a more practical four-door version (perhaps a Gran Coupé later?). The 180kW 228i Coupé will also join the range from September.

The top-of-the-range model is the M235i, powered by the familiar 3.0-litre six-cylinder that now produces 240kW and 450Nm of torque. We took this monster around Dezi Raceway on the KwaZulu-Natal South Coast. Its six-speed manual transmission takes it to 100km/h in just five seconds and is a raw driving experience - its howl reminded me of the E46 M3 CSL or even the E30 325is. There is the option of having a mechanical limited slip differential and it is a must-have on a such a powerful car.

We also had a chance to get behind the wheel of the new BMW 4 Series cabriolet, which replaces the segment-leading 3 Series convertible.

There are three key aspects that make a good four-seater cabriolet in my mind.

The first is whether the back seats are actually usable and in the case of the 4 Series, they are, but not for extended periods as it isn't very spacious back there.

The second thing is whether the wind blows you away with the top down. BMW has overcome this problem with what it calls Air Breathers. These are positioned rearward of the front wheel arches along with Air Curtains to reduce turbulence and aerodynamic drag at the front wheels.

The third aspect is whether removing the roof has changed the dynamic characteristics and rigidity of the car in such a way as to detract from driver enjoyment. Now this cabriolet is over 200kg heavier than the coupé on which it is based, thanks to the metal roof that can fold in 20 seconds at speeds of up to 18km/h. Despite this, I am happy to say that the cabriolet is still a playful, dynamic car. It may not be as sharp, but with the top down, you forget that a little bit of dynamism has been sacrificed for infinite headroom.

For now, the range consists of the 180kW 428i, which uses 6.8 litres/100km and the 225kW 435i that can accelerate from zero to 100km/h in 5.6 seconds. An entry-level 135kW 420i will join the fleet in July.

Peugeot's rough, tough lil' lion king

STUART MOIR

IN A country where the great outdoors is often a stone's throw away and a motoring community that's constantly changing, Peugeot has finally introduced its urban crossover to the local market, dubbing it the 2008.

While the year 2008 may seem like ages ago, this car's fresh appeal is stylish and modern.

Based on the successful 208's platform, the 2008 boasts the same driving characteristics as its more diminutive sibling, but incorporates more space and versatility to appeal to the new target market that craves escapism from the city.

From the outset the 2008 is inherently French in its design. By this I mean it's a looker. Coming out of the fashion capital of the world, we expect a lot and it doesn't fail to deliver.

Flowing curves and an attractive booty, along with generous proportions and glass to add to its beauty, signal the vehicle's intent: it wants to transport you in the most stylish manner without sacrificing on comfort and functionality.

This can best be seen in the interior, which is made up of hard- and soft-touch materials that create a flowing cabin to give a sense of openness while the rear folding seats and large 360-litre boot make it a perfect vehicle for loading and unloading.

Additionally, the attention to detail is impressive and can't be ignored as every panel gap is almost perfect. Throw into the mix a healthy dose of standard features and both the driver and passenger won't be found wanting.

A full-colour touch-screen display is standard, which includes integrated satellite navigation, Bluetooth-powered telephony and audio streaming, USB and auxiliary audio inputs, a trip computer and an FM/AM receiver with multiple loudspeakers.

Out on the open road, the 2008 feels composed, but the added ride height does mean the dynamics suffer slightly, although it makes off-roading a breeze. Switching between the various grip control levels by the twist of a button allows the car to adapt to the changing road conditions courtesy of Peugeot's Grip Control system.

Powering this new crossover is Peugeot's famed 1.6-litre engine, also found in its 208 brother.

Producing 88kW of power and a cheeky 160Nm of torque, the car does feel zippy given its size. Its lightweight design (it weighs in at 1 080kg) means there is also some fun to be had, with a 0-100km/h sprint time of around 9.5 seconds and a top speed of 196km/h.

On the fuel consumption front, Peugeot claims 5.9 litres/100km and carbon emissions of 135g/km. During our launch drive we could only get a return of over 8.0 litres/100km driving at a consistent speed for some distance.

This lion is certainly a composed ride that offers practicality and comfort in a refined package, but with only one model available (the highly specced Allure), it might only appeal to a select few. Adding to this are the five-speed manual gearbox - which leaves the engine begging for a sixth at cruising speeds - and a slightly awkward driving position that results in the steering wheel covering the clocks (just like in the 208).

Other than this, the 2008 offers the adventurer in us everything we could want, from practicality mated with French flair and real-life usability. With other derivatives hopefully on the horizon, including an automatic, the 2008 ticks all the boxes.

The 2008 comes with Peugeot's Premium Plan, which links a 3-year/100 000km warranty to a 5-year/60 000km maintenance plan.

Suzuki SX4 breaks some new ground

PHOTO: QUICKPIC

MANY South Africans will remember the previous-generation Suzuki SX4. The small crossover, along with the Swift helped usher in a new era for the Japanese automaker locally. The new SX4 has now hit South African shores and promises to be a more stylish and efficient proposition.

Suzuki went back to the drawing board for the new model and focused on creating an aerodynamic shape in combination with a more prominent front end that features a large grille and more modern headlamps that now feature LED technology. At the rear the tail lights feature a two-part combination that mixes colours and finishes to create a more visually appealing package. For instance, there are wide wheel-arch mouldings in contrasting black and metallic finishes for protective panels at the front, side and rear.

There is 180mm of ground clearance, meaning that a level of off-road ability has been added to the package. It is now 165mm longer with a 100mm increase in wheelbase while the width has grown by 10mm.

The interior now features more soft-touch surfaces and is accented by metallic highlights to offset the cabin's charcoal overtone. Thanks to the exterior growth, the interior benefits from a 220mm longer and 35mm wider cabin which means more legroom, particularly at the rear. There is 430 litres of luggage space, which increases to 1 269 litres when the rear seats are folded flat.

The new SX4 features a 1.6-litre four-cylinder engine that produces 86kW and 156Nm and can be coupled with either a five-speed manual gearbox or CVT automatic. The standard SX4 comes in front-wheel-drive guise, although the top-end models can be specified with the AllGrip four-wheel-drive system. The system features four driving modes namely Auto, Sport, Snow and Lock.

The two-wheel-drive manual model uses a claimed 5.8 litres/100km of fuel and emits 137g/km CO<sub>2</sub>.

The range will consist of five models, which are all powered by the same engine but vary in terms of specification. There will be an entry-level front-wheel-drive version called the GL, two front-wheel-drive GLX models in either manual or auto and two four-wheel-drive models called GLX AllGrip with either manual or automatic transmissions.

Standard features include ABS brakes with EBD and ESP, seven airbags, cruise control and a Bluetooth and MP3-compatible infotainment system.

All models come with a 3-year/100 000km warranty and 3-year/90 000 km service plan.

Pricing starts at R265 900 for the SX4 GL manual and goes up to R341 900 for the SX4 GLX AllGrip auto. - Motoring Staff

Electric fun for the young ones arrives

THE CAYENNE Group are now the official importers and distributors for the new generation of Kuberg Electric Motor Cycles. The Cayenne directors recently signed a deal with the Kuberg operation for its internationally recognised brand.

As more people start to dabble in electric mobility, these new electric two-wheelers allow riders to go where it would not be possible for conventional motorcycles due to the noise, pollution and various restrictions enforced by estates and parks.

The power delivery is predictable and has five levels of adjustment, meaning you can have up to six hours of fun on a single charge. Unlike the opposition, all bikes are fitted with seats, making them easy to ride in any situation. Three models will be launched in March: the Kuberg Start, ideal for two to five year olds, the Kuberg Trail E ideal for ages five to nine and the Kuberg Cross, a great Enduro-style bike for six to 10 year olds.

The Kuberg brand was designed, developed and manufactured by a specially selected team of experts from the Czech Republic and the USA. - Motoring Staff

2014 GT-R to rip our roads apart

IT'S ANOTHER YEAR and another GT-R as Nissan releases the updated version of its revered supercar in South Africa, adding a host of improvements for the 2014 model year.

The GT-R is powered by a front-mounted twin-turbocharged 3.8-litre V6 petrol engine mated to a six-speed automated dual-clutch gearbox. With power going to all four wheels, the GT-R makes use of 397kW and 628Nm. The eye-popping results are a 0-100km/h sprint time of just 2.9 seconds and a top speed of 315km/h.

The 2014 GT-R sees a host of mechanical updates, which include a fine-tuned suspension that's now symmetrical to reduce load fluctuation between the four wheels and allowing for better stability and more consistent grip. Other updates are optimised electronic control of the shock absorber valves and modified front stabiliser spring rates to ensure more consistent tyre contact with the road, and enhanced use of suspension stroke, which improves roadholding for a poised and confident ride and continued outstanding traction and a reduction in NVH for a more comfortable ride as well as better straight-line stability.

Brand-new multi-LED headlights now feature as standard along with a distinct new lighting motif that not only gives the GT-R a new signature but also inherent safety benefits. With Adaptive Front Lighting System, the GT-R now boasts automatically adapting headlights that adjust the angle of the lighting beam according to the speed of the vehicle.

On the inside, a new red interior colour scheme is available while the infotainment and satellite navigation units have also been upgraded with the latest in in-car entertainment and GPS technology.

Complementing the 3-year/100 000km warranty, the 2014 Nissan GT-R is available in South Africa exclusively with an optional two-year extension to stretch the warranty to five years. A 3-year/50 000km service plan is also included as standard.

Pricing starts at R1 475 000 for the GT-R Premium to R1 527 000 for the Black Edition. - Motoring Staff

You mention that we may ask the officer for their appointment card to ensure legitimacy.

Okay, if they are fake cops they probably won't have any, but my problem is that whatever the officer may show me, I wouldn't know relevant details to look for, like a service number or station.

You are quite right, the public is breeding these corrupt cops. To some, it has been a convenient way to get out of paying a fine. I have long wondered when it would turn around and become extortion.

To those that continue to pay bribes, I urge them to consider their sisters, wives, mothers or girlfriends travelling alone and being stopped by dishonest cops.

SANRAL SLACKING OFF BIG TIME

Dear Editor,

I have received several e-toll accounts for a person I don't know and who does not stay at my address. In less than three months, he has tolls amounting to R7 000 and counting. This raises some questions:

- Despite several returned accounts, visits to its kiosks and phone calls, Sanral has not stopped sending the bills here. Can't it update its records?
- The person has just added a new car to his name, so what did he use as proof of address when he registered it?
- What about the promise by Sanral to limit the monthly charges to R400 or is that only for e-tags?

Sanral sees these cars travelling on a regular basis through the same gantries, so why is it unable to inform the police of the location of this offender and intercept him. Being able to intercept wanted vehicles, including stolen ones and ones with no number plates, was one of Sanral's selling points for the toll scheme. How many such vehicles have they intercepted or recovered so far?

There must be hundreds of similar outstanding amounts by now. I wonder how much Sanral is owed in total.

I think we would all like some answers.

NO TROUBLE FOR TROUBLE ROADS

Dear Editor,

With regards to your article Joburg's long, winding road to ruin in week 12's issue, I totally agree, only the situation you described is so much worse. The surfaces of all our roads are in chaos.

This is due to the poor workmanship of the repair teams who have not been fully trained in filling the potholes, including the mixture they're using and this should be brought to the attention of the department that's responsible.

In The Star on 20 March, a picture of the managing director of the Johannesburg Roads Agency, Skhumbuzo Macozama was shown. Next to it was a picture and list of instructions on how to repair a pothole and showed the road surface, aggregate, filter and native material being used. Then he gave five steps on how to repair a pothole.

This I find is totally misleading the public, as I have seen a truck stopping where the workers just take a spade, dump a lump of tar into the pothole, stamp it down and then leave the spot open to motorists to ride right over. The result is that the next day or so that pothole has broken open once again and then they come and repair it in exactly the same way.

How can they print an article full of lies like this and get away with it? In no way do they repair a pothole as this article displays.

This has been proved over and over again, especially in our area of Roodepoort. A photo was taken of an intersection with all the potholes in it and then another one later to show all the potholes repaired.

Four weeks later, all these potholes had broken open again and had to be redone. This happens time and time again, so instead of all the progress they make to repair the potholes, they have to go back and redo them when they all break open again.

Desiree

BRIBES HAVE GREAT CONSEQUENCES

Dear Editor,

I read Sean Nurse's article Police corruption knows no bounds in week 13's issue with interest.

You must have nerves of titanium to have stayed calm all while wondering as to the intentions of the four officers that had pulled you over.

Your article gives good advice as to how to conduct oneself and what to look out for in such a situation.

How precious is your child's life to you?

STUART MOIR

Research has shown that car seats provide life-saving and injury reducing benefits for child passengers when correctly installed and can reduce the risk of fatal injury

Children not fastened into child seats or wearing seat belts is a hot topic. Every other day we are asked to write an article on this matter and maybe it was the recent long weekend or the early morning school runs, but I'm noticing more and more that parents don't strap their children in safely.

Recently I drove past a mother of three in a rather old car with her brood playing around in the back and the youngest sitting on her lap.

The fact that she was wearing her seat belt amazed me. However, she probably only did this because it's required by law and is often strictly policed. But surely she would care about her own flesh and blood enough to want to keep them safe, especially when considering the state of our roads and our drivers.

She's not alone though. A vast majority of our road users take very little notice in strapping in their young ones. Baby seats seem to appear for a few months and then it's much easier for Mommy to just hold Baby while Daddy drives.

I often wish these parents would catch a wake-up. Sadly that's easier said than done and should anything happen while they are driving, it is often the innocent children who will pay the price with their lives.

Fitting a child seat helps secure your child's safety. Photo: Newspress

The statistics are frightening: more than one third of children under the age of 13 who die in vehicle accidents were not wearing seat belts or in car seats.

Caregivers and parents are the first lines of defence in ensuring their children are secured and buckled up as motor vehicle collisions remain the leading cause of death for children in first-world countries.

I'm well aware that children can be little tyrants and kick and scream when they are buckled up, but these screams could be their last if you don't take the necessary time to securely fasten them in.

"But we're just going down the road" is another poor excuse I've heard over the years. It doesn't matter how far you are travelling, you should care enough to make the necessary time and buckle yourself and your loved ones.

Research has shown that car seats provide life-saving and injury reducing benefits for child passengers when correctly installed and can reduce the risk of fatal injury by over 70% for infants and some 50% for toddlers while children are around 60% less likely to be injured in a booster seat than if they were using seat belts alone.

I know there are a lot of us who get irate about the seat belt debacle, from those who chose not to wear it to the parents who can't be bothered enough to buckle their children in. Overseas, governments run safety campaigns to promote awareness and educate motorists on the dangers involved of not wearing seat belts, particularly for small children.

It's this promotional awareness that has changed people's perceptions and ideas, but yet it still hasn't seemed to have caught on locally.

Our safety campaigns revolve around drinking and driving with the odd 'buckle up', but we need something stronger to enforce a shift in our thinking and to value the human life.

If you have a child and own a car, you should almost be forced into buying a baby seat. Vehicle rental companies are starting to take this matter seriously and even offer baby seats in rental cars. But what's the point if a large number of parents refuse to utilise them, instead strap their bag of groceries in it and place young Isaac on their lap.

Sometimes it's necessary to paint a gloomy picture to force people to change. For instance, you are 10 times more likely to be killed in a road accident if you are not wearing a seat belt and a crash at 40km/h is like falling from a two-storey building... onto concrete. It certainly can't be fun.

Now imagine your precious loved one enduring an experience like that. "Ag, but my car has airbags so we will be okay" is another bright answer someone might mumble. Fantastic! However, airbags are designed to work as supplements to seat belts and by not wearing a seat belt a passenger may come into contact with the airbags before they fully deploy - not ideal when considering airbags are deployed at around 300km/h.

Findings show that nearly all people in the United States who have died from airbag-related injuries were either incorrectly restrained or not restrained at all.

So next time you decide to head out onto the road, rather take the necessary precautions for yourself and loved ones to help ensure you arrive at your destination safely. We all know the dangers associated with commuting, but ultimately it is up to us to do our part and protect those who are unable to protect themselves.
