- Removes the necessity for lots of little strap-on IR emitters.
- Sky only or Universal connection options, works with Sky Satellite (including Sky+ and Sky HD), Virgin, Freeview, IPTV, PVRs, DVDs, Media PCs, web browsers etc
- High power IR output

ADSL Centralised Filter/Splitter

A faceplate filter/splitter of the type installed by the engineer for an installed ADSL service. It replaces the lower half of the BT NTE5 master socket and provides two outlets on the faceplate, one is an RJ11 socket (wired straight through, unfiltered) for the connection of ADSL modems, the other is a BT 431A socket which is filtered for the connection of telephony equipment. A 3-way IDC connector on the rear also provides a filtered output to any extension sockets. This unit is ideal if you only have one computer within reasonable distance of the master socket, if all the other sockets are for telephony use you don't need microfilters at each outlet.

- Tested by BT to SIN issue 2.2
- Compatible with caller display (doesn't strip out the caller ID information)
- CE marked - BS EN55022
- Moulded from VO rated material colour matched to BT 1P white
- Dimensions (HxWxD): 68x84x30mm (excluding protruding connector plug)

Note: The NTE5 master socket is the type that when the lower half is un-plugged, it isolates the BT network side from the subscriber. Any ADSL modems connected to the filtered output, either via the socket on the front or connected into hardwired extension sockets wired from the rear, will not function from these filtered outputs.

Constant Voltage Sealed Lead Acid Battery Chargers

Suitable for charging 2-4Ah (CPC Code BT0256410) and 2-6Ah (CPC Code BT0256510) sealed lead acid batteries. At the end of the charge, the battery voltage is maintained at a constant level and the charging current decreases to trickle to keep the battery fully charged. The charger is protected against internal short circuits via a thermal fuse and output short circuits, overloads and incorrect polarity by electronic limitation of output current.

Red LED indicates that charging is in progress; once the charge is complete, the LED will turn off.

- Regulated constant voltage
- 230Vac/50Hz input
- Overvoltage protection
- Overcurrent protection
- Short circuit protection
- LED charge indication

RF Transmitters and Receivers

A range of low cost, single and dual radio frequency transmitters and receivers. They can be used for a variety of switching tasks such as remote switching, light control, arm/disarming of security devices, emergency medical alert response, garage door control and entertainment/recreational equipment control.

The sets are factory coded, and the dual transmitter (HTX002) has two buttons which switch the corresponding outputs on the dual channel receiver (HRX002). If bought separately the individual transmitters and receivers are coded by solder trace and have either 531,441 or 6,561 trinary combinations depending on whether the receiver is single or dual channel.

The receiver's outputs are open collector transistor and have drive capabilities of 500mA. They are therefore not suitable for direct driving heavier loads and should be used in conjunction with relay, thyristor or power transistor control circuits. The transmitters have a range of approximately 30m (subject to environmental conditions) and are DTI approved. Spare, uncoded transmitters are available in both single or dual format.

Portasol

Armed with Portasol - unhindered by trailing leads or the need for a power point - the professional can make short work of many soldering tasks. Liquid gas is used as the heating source. Gas is held in a reservoir inside the iron and a patented catalytic converter provides the heating at the tip (there is no flame during soldering). The iron delivers power equivalent to a 60 watt electric iron so it can cope with full size jobs.

Features:

- Totally portable.
- Powered by ordinary lighter fuel.
- Up to 60 minutes continuous use.
- Adjustable temperature equivalent to 10-60 watts.
- Tip temperatures to max of 400°C.
- Refill in seconds.
- Meets all safety standards.
- Supplied with one 2.4mm tip.

PORTASOL comes complete with a protective cap and can be carried in the pocket like a pen. It is immediately ready for use, the cap includes a lighter to start the catalytic conversion. Its gas energy source removes all risks of electrical damage to sensitive components.
