

Jail and bail in collecting money for cancer

The second Jail and Bail event to raise money for cancer was held at the Total Garage on Van Ryneveld Avenue on Friday morning, and Natanja Swanepoel, Marde-lyn Pieterse and Sonja Smith were part of it. It saw innocent people being 'arrested' and having to pay 'to be released on bail'. CPF head of marketing Willa Frahm said the money collected in this way would go to the Cancer Association of SA (Cansa). "The Centurion citizens were arrested in Pierre van Rynafeld all in the name of creating awareness and raising money for cancer related illnesses," said Frahm. Read more on www.rekordcenturion.co.za

Sinkhole crisis is 'easing'

“The city has what is called the dolomite risk management plan. We are planning to focus on dolomitic areas in basically the whole of Centurion.”

Kristian Meijer

The Tshwane metro says it is winning the fight against sinkholes, slowly.

Ashika Sudu, deputy director of geology, said the metro had a plan to tackle the problem of sinkholes in Centurion.

He was speaking at a news briefing in Pretorius Avenue in Lyttelton Manor, where the task of filling one of the largest sink holes in Tshwane was recently completed.

The hole measured at 44m x 28m in diameter and 9m deep.

"The city has what is called the dolomite risk management plan, focusing on dolomitic areas, basically the whole of Centurion," said Sudu.

"This plan relates to the upgrading of services (water and sewerage pipes)."

One of the weaknesses was that the metro was sitting with old infrastructure.

"It is vulnerable to any sort of movement in the soil," said Sudu.

The sinkhole in Pretorius Avenue was a result of decaying infrastructure forcing the surrounding earth to cave in.

Sudu said sinkholes could not be totally eliminated as they were being caused by environmental factors, like heavy rainfall.

DA ward councillor Clive Napier has spoken out against the frequent formation of sinkholes.

"Sinkholes are occurring far too frequently in Centurion."

More than 20 have formed in the past five years, said Napier.

"Sinkholes impact on business, the residential property market and traffic flow."

Sudu said the sinkhole in Pretorius Avenue extended onto a residence.

The owner, concerned over the integrity of the house, decided to have the house demolished.

Now a shell of the back of the house is left standing and 'For Sale' signs litter the palisade fence around it.

Police operations yield results

More than 70 people were arrested in an anti-crime swoop in Sunnyside, Brooklyn, Garsfontein, Villieria, Moot and Lyttelton.

The arrests were made between Friday and Sunday morning.

"Among those caught were two Sunnyside residents, who were arrested for perjury.

"Their arrest related to a complaint received by police before the swoop," said police spokesperson Captain Colette Weilbach.

"Police received a complaint on Friday of a house robbery that took place during the early hours at the Westbrook flats in Leyds Street," she said.

The 49-year-old father claimed that his 27-year-old daughter heard a noise at the window and woke him up.

He told police he was confronted by two armed men when he went to investigate.

According to the father, the men robbed him of cash, a 9mm pistol and a television set.

"After a whole day's investigation and further interrogation, the man confessed he had lied to police and had laid false charges," Weilbach said.

"Both father and daughter were arrested."

Weilbach said the police wanted to send a clear message that this kind of criminality would not be tolerated.

"Intentional false statements under oath

Brooklyn police confiscated 447 bottles of liquor (more than 200 litres) from a guesthouse dealing without a liquor licence.

are very serious offences," she said. "A thorough investigation is done on all reported cases and if a person lied to the police they will have to face the full force of the law."

During an operation on Friday evening, Brooklyn police seized 447 bottles of liquor (more than 200 litres) from a guesthouse.

Police received complaints from residents in Waterkloof Ridge about loud music and noise after hours at a guesthouse in Rooiribbok Street.

An inspection was conducted and it was found the guesthouse was trading without a liquor licence and there was no fire, health and safety certificate.

A docket was opened at the Brooklyn police station.

The other arrests related to offences such as assault, theft and shoplifting, a pedestrian being a source of danger, possession of suspected stolen goods, possession of drugs and dagga and being in the country without proper documentation.

Total cost of repairs at millions

Sudu said the total cost of repair came to R11.3 million — filling the hole, repairing damaged bulk infrastructure network and the road surface.

Napier said: "The time taken to fill sink holes in Centurion is disturbing; sometimes it takes up to two years for just one."

Sudu said the nature of dolomite made it difficult to predict when sinkholes would occur, how big they would be, how long repairs would take and how much the repairs would cost.

"Because of this, we cannot have a fixed budget for sinkholes... we consider what is historically spent to allocate a budget," she said.

"Generally, we estimate repairs to take between six and nine months, but there are so many unknown factors. The one in Pretorius Avenue occurred in April 2013, and it was June 2015 when repairs were completed."

Other sinkholes being filled in Centurion included another large one in Clifton Avenue in Lyttelton Manor, also caused by decaying infrastructure. Napier also questioned the time it has taken for repairs around the Clifton Avenue sinkhole.

State worried over police killings

Ron Sibiya

Police who lost their lives during the year were honoured as heroes at the Union Buildings on Sunday during an emotional ceremony.

A total of 58 police officers have been killed since January this year. "There would be very few countries that have so many police officers killed in such a short space of time," President Jacob Zuma said, addressing hundreds of people at the Police national commemoration day.

Zuma said police killings in the country were a problem that needed a serious debate.

He said the high figure of murdered police officers in such a short period clearly indicated there was a great deal of disrespect for the law by criminals.

Of the total number of police officers killed since January, 27 died while on duty and 31 when they were not on duty.

Zuma urged all South Africans to work with the police in fighting crime.

"The public must contribute to the creation of a more conducive environment for police to fight crime decisively.

"This must be done through reporting all criminal activities to the police.

The criminals who terrorise communities and who kill our police officers must not be protected." Zuma said members of the public must also refrain from behaviour that perpetuated crime.

President Jacob Zuma on his way to lay a wreath in honour of killed police officers.

"When people buy stolen goods, they create a market for criminals and put the lives of everybody, including the police officers, in danger."

He urged police to defend themselves with everything at their disposal if they were attacked.

Zuma, however, advised police to act within the law at all times and avoid using excessive force.

Police still on hunt for Spur robbers

Gopolang Chawane

Six men are still on the run after robbing a Spur and its customers in Centurion two weeks ago.

"Police appeal to the public for any information on the whereabouts of these men," said Olivenhoutbosch police spokesperson Constable Malefu Makena.

"Police will be happy to bring them to book."

The men robbed the restaurant and patrons of R30 000 in cash.

"Clothes, wallets and jewellery worth R17 500 were stolen [from customers]," said Makena.

"No injuries or gunshots were reported." But an employee, who wanted to remain anonymous, said three people were injured during the robbery. One of them was struck with a firearm.

Anyone with information could call the police on 012-652-0083.

Stolen bank cards found after police chase

Natalie Grobler

A video clip of a high-speed police chase in Centurion had social media abuzz on Friday morning.

The chase ended in the arrest of three men near the Jean Avenue off-ramp in Centurion on Thursday afternoon. They were caught with suspected stolen bank cards in their possession.

Police spokesperson Captain Colette

Weilbach confirmed the arrest.

"The police received word to be on the look-out for a brown Toyota Hilux bakkie travelling on the N14 in the direction Pretoria," she said. "The vehicle was reported as being suspicious. Lyttelton police responded and pulled the vehicle over at the Jean Avenue off-ramp."

Weilbach said the vehicle and its occupants were searched. Police seized 228 Capitec bank cards.

"The men are all from Soshanguve, aged 57, 42 and 38. The trio will appear in court soon." The police once again urged people to report unusual activities the 10111 emergency number.

Information on crime could be given to the police anonymously by phoning 08600-10111 or by sending an SMS to 32211.

"Assist the Gauteng police to fight fraud, corruption, unethical behaviour that could be detrimental to our success," Weilbach said.

DA mayoral hope for Tshwane announced

Simone Heradien

Democratic Alliance (DA) Tshwane mayoral candidate Solly Msimanga is intent on ridding Tshwane of nyaope and other drugs. DA Gauteng leader John Moody on Saturday announced Msimanga was the party's candidate for mayor of Tshwane in next year's municipal elections.

In his acceptance speech on the steps of the city hall in Pretoria, Msimanga said ridding the metro of drugs would be one of his main priorities should he become mayor after the election.

Msimanga would reintroduce the drugs and narcotic unit in the metro police and declared war on the drug lords.

"We are going to make sure we identify these people and we are not going to deal with them with kid gloves," he vowed. "We are going to arrest them. We're going to take them off the streets."

Rehabilitation centres, currently unused, would be made operational again.

"We will make sure we introduce some new interventions such as rehabilitation centres, to give people skills, so that they don't go back to a life of drugs," he said.

His war on drugs was greeted with much applause.

But moreover, he said he wanted to "restore people's hope". "We want to do what the ANC has failed to do. We want to bring the services which you should be enjoying which you have not," he said.

Touching on recent city scandals such as the PEU prepaid electricity meter contract, Msimanga promised to make all tender processes public if elected.

"I can't understand why the secrecy," he woefully added, shaking his head.

On service delivery, he said the DA

“When it rains it washes away the dirt, springing new life. Tshwane needs to be washed clean – the blue [DA] wave is going to wash Tshwane clean.”

would fill the 40% plus vacancies that needed to be filled to ensure service delivery to residents of the Jacaranda city.

That was to ensure "the people on the ground can benefit".

On the much beleaguered metro police – often criticised for their ineptitude – Msimanga would replace its head with "someone who understands what it takes to lead a unit as important as a crime-combating unit".

"I will make sure that every metro police officer understands all the bylaws of the city so that the bylaws can be properly enforced... so that people who are innocent are not mishandled by metro police who does not understand how to do their job," he pointed out.

"We're going to make sure of proper training...and capacity."

The 35-year-old Msimanga is a son of Atteridgeville who claimed that he understood the needs of the poor growing up wanting.

This he illustrated by referring to the downpour during Saturday's proceedings. "I know what it means to sleep in a shack soaked in rain," he said.

Ahead of the announcement, Gauteng leader Moody too addressed the weather conditions.

"When it rains it washes away the dirt, springing new life. Tshwane needs to be washed clean – the blue [DA] wave is going to wash Tshwane clean.

"The blue wave will wash away mal-administration, poor service delivery and everything that goes with it to bring a new life...so that generations to come will know indeed there is an organisation that cleansed the city of 'filth'."

DA supporters were not deterred by the weather.

Much toyi-toying and stomping of feet accompanied the singing of adapted struggle songs, including a praise song for DA leader Mmusi Maimane.

Even the shadow minister of public enterprises, Natasha Mazonne, and Moody could not be stopped from moving to the DJ's grooves.

Body found at rank

Gopolang Chawane

A man was found dead at the Mooiplaas taxi rank in Centurion on Monday morning.

Constable Tumisang Moloto of the Erasmia police said the body was discovered by a woman passing by.

"The woman was on her way to work when she saw the body of the man lying on the ground next to a container used as a spaza shop.

"The woman alerted the police," said Moloto.

The man had severe injuries to his head with stab wounds on his upper body. He was between 25 and 30 years old.

Moloto said the motive for the murder was unknown. A murder docket was opened at the Erasmia police station.

Heavy rain caused the hill to partially collapse next to the bridge on the N14/R55 to Krugersdorp on Saturday.

R55-bridge repaired again

Kristian Meijer

The mudslide underneath the R55-bridge over the N14 has been repaired after it collapsed on Saturday.

Heavy rains caused large parts of the embankment, along with cement blocks packed on the side of the road, to spill onto the N14 towards Krugersdorp. The road was partially obstructed by the spill.

Democratic Alliance (DA) ward councillor Marika Kruger Muller on Monday said the bridge was now repaired and the road open to traffic. "Sanral and the Tshwane metro conducted the emergency repairs to the damaged embankment. Luckily it seems that there was no damage to the structure of the bridge," said Muller.

She said the mudslide had been cleared and the road was once again safe for motorists to use.

Pretorians were struck with heavy weather last week. Hail and thunderstorms billowed across Pretoria and caused a roof in the east to cave in partially.

Resident Refilwe Mongalo said her house in Equestria was damaged when lightning struck an antenna, causing the roof to catch fire and walls to crack.

"Lightning struck the outdoor TV antenna connected to our house. As soon as that happened, our mains switch exploded and caused the walls and ceiling to crack," she said.

"The roof caught fire in the process. We called the caretaker of the complex and firefighters thereafter," she said.

Mongalo said she was at the gate of the complex when the first lightning struck. Inside her house were a nine-year-old child and a domestic worker.

"When I got into the house, there was smoke all over and I told everyone to evacuate the building. Firefighters managed to stop the fire but nothing major was damaged and no one was injured," she said.

"We are grateful for the help we got but we don't know where we are going to sleep tonight because the house and all the appliances are damaged."

Man caught after killing

Gopolang Chawane

A man was arrested at the weekend after a soldier was killed with a bottle in General de Wet Street, Thaba Tshwane.

Pretoria central police spokesperson Captain Augustinah Selepe said someone hit the soldier over the head with a bottle on Saturday morning and ran away.

A man saw what happened and followed the attacker to what seemed like his place of residence and alerted the police, said Selepe.

"It appears the soldier (46) was off-duty when he was assaulted. He died on the scene. A murder docket was opened."

Selepe said the man was scheduled to appear in the Pretoria Magistrate's Court on Tuesday on a charge of murder.

Wishing Blessing Manale a very blessed day

“I want to be his eyes and ears. I need to supply the media his speech – but he keeps on changing his speeches.”

Yolanda Barnard

It is a Wednesday morning, it is a grey world – the world of government officials. "Where is room D29?" The front desk lady, wearing a perm, nudges me to the left.

Long passages. No colour. Only grey. Grey people watching the clock. Grey files and forms.

Ahh! Room D29. I knock on the door. Two secretaries stuffed tightly together in a small office. Files neatly labelled – Media Events and Media Briefings – cluttered their desks.

It is the municipal office in Lyttelton, Centurion.

Inside room D29, another door leading to a separate office – the boss' office.

Blessing Yassir Manale is the mouth, mayor Kgosietsa Ramokgopa's spokesperson and director of communications.

Golden words drip from the 41-year old's mouth, most carefully crafted to spin his principal and the city to peachy light.

He sits behind his polished wooden desk dressed in formal suit, moustache neatly trimmed. Some people refer to him as the city's Clark Gable.

"Coffee?" Blessing asks.

"Champagne, please," I reply.

His moustache twitches as he smiles: "Sorry, this is not Nkandla. Fortunately we have Nescafé."

I accept.

The phone rings.

"It is for you, Mr Manale," the secretary, as petite and refined as an African Barbie, says as she peeps into the office; "a journalist from Mail & Guardian is on the line."

He waves his hand... "Tell him I will phone back, please," he says.

Will you, Mr. Manale? I wonder to myself...

Blessing is well-known for his jovial personality and cunning, but not for keeping to deadlines.

Sometimes he doesn't return calls, yet others he will just ignore, the endless list of questions from journalists.

Blessing, could you please come back to me as soon as possible?

Blessing, what is the city doing about crime at the quarry in Monument Park?

Blessing, why did the mayor slam the DA councillor during the council meeting?

Blessing, what is going on with the water pipes in Waterkloof?

Blessing, why did...?

Blessing, Blessing, Blessing...

A never-ending stream of emails to his computer, never-ending phone calls from journalist asking questions that he does not have answers to... Yes, it is not easy to be a mayoral spokesperson for the third biggest metropolis in the world...

"I sometimes do not reply to questions as I do not want to lie to the media," he says. "The mayor is a difficult, difficult man," he sighs, then sips at his all-too-hot coffee.

"I want to be his advisor, but he is doing his own thing."

"No, I do not know what the colour of his underpants is and neither do I know what's going on in his personal life... I need to know, but sometimes I just don't know what he is up to." Another sigh.

"He [the mayor] is a hard worker, but he is not a cut-and-paste person. And when he is angry, all hell breaks loose."

Yes, it is not an easy job to be the mayoral spokesperson...

"I want to be his eyes and ears. I need to supply the media his speech – but he keeps on changing his speeches," he says.

Blessing was born into a Muslim family in Limpopo, a stone's throw from the University of Limpopo.

As the little nine-year-old, he would look at the university thinking: "I want to be a doctor one day – but I want to be a doctor without a medical degree."

Maths was not one of his strongest subjects, but this boytjie was clever – he skipped a grade – and he could spin stories from left to right so he decided to study law.

He obtained his LLB-degree and then high-profile jobs followed: special advisor to vice-chancellor of the University of Western Cape, deputy director of communications, director for international co-operation, chief director of environmental planning and cooperation.

But the bug bit so he later chose to stay with communications.

Though Blessing is a loyal member of the ANC, he is tired of Nkandla, tired of the Gupta scandals and tired of corruption.

He loves Afrikaners – he can speak, read and write Afrikaans fluently.

Blessing believes the ANC will win the municipal election next year.

"I love Pretoria. It is the first bastion of the democratic country."

Did he just use that dreaded word, Pretoria?

"Pretoria is youthful and vibrant and the city should be inclusive," he says, switching to golden words.

"Pretoria is the best city in South Africa and people must realise that this is the capital city – not Johannesburg or Cape Town." In the evenings, when he is done chastising annoying journalists and advising the mayor, he goes home to his wife and three children.

Already a holder of a master's degree, maybe that "doctor without a medical degree" is still possible.

"Well, have a blessed day, Blessing," I say as I walk out.

Blessing Manale - the man with the golden words.

Piet se beertjie

Ek tree by 'n Kansa-oggend op en 'n vrou vertel van 'n vorige byeenkoms toe die organiseerder uit die bloute vir haar man, wat met breinkanker gediagnoseer was, 'n sagte teddiebeer saamstuur huis toe.

Sy het dit huiwerig aanvaar omdat sy nie haar man met so beertjie kon voorstel nie – hy was immers selfs in sy siekte steeds hierdie groot en lywige Bloubul-ondersteuner.

By die huis gekom was sy egter geraak en verbaas oor hoe die beertjie deel van sy lewe geword het, selfs later saam met hom hospitium toe is, waar hy oorleed is.

Die beertjie het toe teruggekomb huis toe en lê nou in die aande langs haar op Piet se plek.

'n Aangrypende storie, maar nog meer so toe sy aan die einde van haar storie na die organiseerder toe draai met die woorde: "Lorraine, dankie dat jy daardie dag geluister het na daardie stemmetjie wat in jou oor geluister het.

"Jy was die instrument en God kon jou gebruik." Hoeveel keer maak ons 'n gevoel, gedagte of woord af as 'dis sommer simpel', 'dit kan nie wees nie, ek hoor verkeerd', of

Dr. Johan

'wat sal die mense sê?' ... en so blokkeer ons die Heilige Gees om deur ons te werk en uit te reik. Dankie dat jy gehoorsaam was."

Dit het my regtig getref. Hoeveel maal het ons nie daardie naam, saak of gesig wat skielik voor ons opkom nie. Sonder rede wonder jy hoe dit met iemand gaan of het jy 'n behoefte om met hulle kontak te maak.

Wanneer jy onder beheer van die Heilige Gees leef is die moontlikheid groot dat dit Hy is wat besig is om jou sensitief te maak vir die behoeftes van iemand anders. Hebreërs 3:7 bevestig dit: Luister daarom na wat die Heilige Gees sê: "Vandag, as julle Sy stem hoor moet julle nie hardkoppig wees nie." Moet nie die geleentheid om vir iemand anders tot sien te wees misloop nie. Stel jou radars elke oggend met gebed op vir dit wat deur die dag oor jou pad kan kom. Bel, stuur daardie SMS, gaan kuier.

As jy vandag die vreemde behoefte kry om vir iemand 'n sagte teddiebeertjie te gaan gee, moet jy nie uitstel nie.

Friendly licensing service

Refer to article by Andrew Ngozo, page 2 of Centurion Rekord Friday August 21, 2015

I must say that I do not agree with the statement by doctor Lucas Steenkamp.

As the date of the expiry of my driver's licence approached, I received a renewal notice in the mail.

So I went one bitterly cold morning in June. I waited in a friendly queue (chatting and laughing) and at exactly 8:00 I entered the building. I was greeted by a friendly official and I filled in the required form.

Went through the formalities in about three minutes.

Afterwards walked over to a cashier.

Once again, I was greeted very friendly. I paid and was out of the building by 8:30.

I waited the suggested eight weeks, went back with the required documentation (green bar-coded ID) and received my new licence card without any problem.

Let us treat all occupations fairly and with the necessary respect. I may not be a doctor, but I am a senior military officer and I did not go there wearing a uniform, but I was friendly and treated staff with respect, and did not make any offensive or derogatory remarks.

'n Drukkie vir ouma Lenie

Ouma Lenie van Pretoria-Noord wat onlangs 104 jaar oud geword het, het my sommer diep beïndruk.

Wat 'n merkwaardige getuienis van 'n merkwaardige vrou. Dit sit sommer 'n hupel in my stap op 69-jarige ouderdom en laat my besef dat ek nie moet "worry" oor my oudag wat vinnig nader kom nie!

Whau!! Baie, baie geluk aan Ouma Lenie. Die Here bewys Sy goedheid aan ons deur haar. Baie liefde en 'n drukkie van my.

Spring fest despite rain

Stephen Selaluke

The rain could not stop pupils and parents at Irene Primary School to celebrate the annual spring carnival hosted on the school's premises on Saturday.

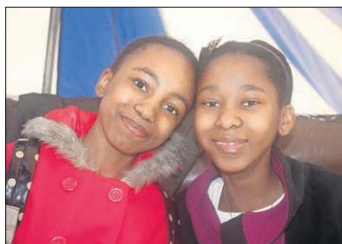

Member of the school's parents teacher association and project manager of the Spring carnival, Portia Moshoeane, said everyone enjoyed the event. Even though they were not able to have fun on the amusement rides.

Rain interrupted the rides, but other activities at the school were popular, which included live music, a flea market, fashion show, clown show and raffles.

Pupils were planning to have another shot at the amusement rides on Monday.

Cycling to the Cape

Kristian Meijer

A Centurion father and son are taking on what most would consider impossible. In December, they will cycle from Krugersdorp to Langebaan in Western Cape, a 1 531 kilometre journey, in five short days from 11 to 16 December.

This gives Martin (33) and André Nel (60) just 120 hours to eat, sleep, cycle and do repairs, should any be required.

To achieve this, they will have to average more than 300 kilometres per day, on smooth highways, pothole-littered back roads and washboard gravel dirt roads.

"In 2013 I did this challenge with one of my friends. We were not rushed and only completed it in 12 days. A short while back I decided I wanted to do something crazy for my 60th birthday, so I decided to do it again, but this time in five days," said André.

When Martin heard of his father's plan, he immediately joined in.

"I recently lost my best friend Marius to cancer. We have since decided to dedicate this cycle to him and raise money for the Childhood Cancer Foundation SA (CHOC), we are calling it Cycle 4 Cancer," said Martin.

Martin admitted the challenge would not be easy.

"This is the first time I have done anything like this. I must get my crazy ambitions from my father," he said laughing.

Martin's best friend Dean van der Walt has also joined in on the journey.

"I have done other extreme challenges, but nothing like this. I suppose I am becoming just as crazy as these two," he said with a big smile.

Cycle 4 Cancer is now looking for donors.

"We already have sponsorship for our accommodation on the trip, but what we need are donations to the Cycle 4 Cancer cause. People can donate in any way they like. Some have chosen to donate a fixed amount per kilometre that we travel," said André.

To prepare for the journey, the two ride several hours a day.

"I get two days off a week, but because he is younger, Martin only gets one day off," said André laughing.

For more information on Cycle 4 Cancer, phone Tarien Cronjé on 082-454-8721 or email events@kynaconsili.com.

Danielle Garrett

Meryl Streep returns to the big screen with Ricki and the Flash – now showing at Nu Metro Woodlands and other cinemas nationwide.

It is the story of Ricki Rendazzo – a guitar heroine who made a world of mistakes as she followed her rock star dreams.

It's been a roller-coaster ride for Ricki (Meryl Streep), a one-time wife and mother of three who left her family behind to follow her dreams of rock and roll stardom in California.

Now, the singer and guitarist must face the music when she returns home to Indiana and reconnect with ex-husband Pete (Kevin Kline), troubled daughter Julie, engaged son Josh and younger son Adam.

Filled with regret, Ricki hopes to find redemption for all of the bad choices in the past.

REKORD PROPERTY

Is the grass really greener on the other side?

For South Africans emigration is a sensitive topic and not an easy decision. While many South Africans who emigrated have since returned to South Africa, there is still a number who are looking to other countries for work, schooling and lifestyle opportunities. This is according to James Bowling, CEO of Monarch & co. A company that specialises in residency and citizenship by investment programmes around the world. He points to a recent survey conducted by Canada Abroad, Canadian immigration consulting, where South Africans who were considering emigrating were asked to share their reasons.

Most of the respondents (75%) were considering emigration because of high crime levels, while 69% wanted to give their children a better life and 40% were looking to earn a better income, with the balance of respondents citing a variety of reasons such as to earn a different currency, to experience something new or to be with their spouse or family.

Aside from crime, political uncertainty, economic instability and electricity problems all play a role in people's decisions to look elsewhere for better opportunities.

"The reasons for many South Africans wanting to leave have intensified in the last six months, and we have seen an uptick in people looking at residency or citizenship options in other countries since the beginning of this year," says Bowling.

However, he notes that emigration is a long-term consideration and something that people need to be very sure of.

"There are a number of factors to take into account when emigrating – it's not just about where you would like to live," says Bowling.

There are tax considerations and financial implications in terms of getting money out of the country with the exchange control regulations, for example.

The decisions on where to go will depend on a number of factors.

"Those looking to emigrate need to ask themselves why they are moving and what they are looking for in their new location.

"The answers to these questions will help to select an ideal destination," Bowling says.

Bowling suggests the following considerations, before finally deciding to take the plunge:

Support systems: Friends, family and yes, your much-relied upon domestic workers will no longer be just around the corner.

When considering emigrating, consider too that you will probably need to do your own housework, and won't have the in-person support from your friends and family back home.

Language and culture: Will you understand the language in the new location? Language barriers can make a move and settling in that much harder, as could vastly different cultures and cuisines.

Weather and lifestyle: South Africans are used to a moderate climate and can battle with vastly different weather conditions.

TERMS & CONDITIONS

CONDITIONS FOR ACCEPTANCE OF ADVERTISING: Rekord reserves the right to withhold or cancel any advertisement order accepted. NB: Rekord accepts responsibility for only one faulty insertion. Advertisers are advised to check their advertisements for possible errors on the first day of publication. No free insertion will be given on the grounds of small typographical errors that do not derogate from the advertisement. NB: Cancellation of a placement order must meet the following conditions to be effective: - The cancellation must be in writing - It must reach the Advertising office of Capital Media at least 3 (three) days prior to the printing date - A cancellation number must be obtained from Capital Media - Any telephonic correspondence must be confirmed in writing to be valid - Capital Media may cancel an advertising agreement if the advertiser fails to pay his/her account within the agreed time.

Capital Media (Pty) Ltd renders a service to our clients to advertise their products and services. However, we cannot be held accountable for any misleading claims or damages that result from the use of said advertised products and services.

Readers should therefore be cautious in responding to any advertisements, in particular financial and business related opportunities, unless a thorough investigation has been conducted into the business practices of the advertiser concerned.

Rekord experiences many problems with clients requesting us to comply within any possible way, to give preference to their advertisements versus that of other clients. This leads to advertisements starting with A1, Attention, or 000. It makes no sense to the reader and prevents them from making logical conclusions as to what the content of the advertisements is about. It spoils the presentation of our classified advertisements and also confuses the reader, who wants to see at a glance what an advertisement is about and make a decision regarding his needs. We believe that our capable representatives can help with good advice in presenting your advertisement with original and fresh ideas.

Sullwald ready for world championships after setbacks

It's not whether you get knocked down, it's whether you get up.

Wian Sullwald, a Commonwealth triathlete, can certainly relate to this quote by the legendary American football coach, Vince Lombardi.

To use his own words, in spite of having hit rock bottom he is totally motivated to get back to his best form as a triathlete. In fact, he has enough confidence to go on record saying that he hopes to win the u.23 title at the World Triathlon Championships in Chicago (15-19 September).

Sullwald's goal is definitely not unrealistic. At last year's World Championships in Edmonton he finished 9th in the u.23 race.

It should be kept in mind that Sullwald is a former junior world champion who has already proven that he has the big-match temperament to fulfil his ambitions.

But it frustrates him that his lack of good results so far this season was not due to his own doing.

Sullwald does not normally swear, but he finds it difficult to talk about ticks without using some three or four letter words to describe them.

This is because his problems began earlier this season when he was diagnosed with biliary (tick bite fever).

"It really messed up my immune system. Every time, just when I thought I had recovered and could start racing again, I became ill again.

"At one stage it got so bad that I began to doubt my own abilities. Absolutely nothing went according to plan. My biggest personal disappointment was my performance at the World Series event in Cape Town.

"The two things that changed everything around for me was, firstly, the support I received from the team at the high performance centre (hpc) which is one of my major sponsors.

"No matter how bad things were, Toby Sutcliffe (CEO at the hpc) maintained that he still believed in me. So did my coach, Lindsey Parry, my parents and my other sponsors. I don't really have the words to describe what their constant support means to me.

"The other real turning point came when I realised that before I could become a true champion I had to learn to deal with setbacks. You have to lose before you can win. Feeling sorry for oneself when having a setback is just not on," said the Tuks/hpc triathlete.

According to Sullwald his training in August has, for the first time in months, gone as planned.

He has been clocking fast times on the track and was getting back in the groove in the swimming pool as well.

This weekend Sullwald will be competing in the World Series event in Edmonton.

In spite of it being the first time in quite a few weeks that he will be racing, Sullwald is confident he will get a good result.

"If I can start the run with the leaders there is no reason why I cannot get a top-10 finish," he concluded.

Stalwart receives top award

Chief operating officer of Unlimited Titans Patricia Kambarami has entered the elite league of the foremost women administrators in sport.

She announced her arrival during an awards ceremony at the Wanderers Club in Illovo by winning the GSport Woman of the Year award last month, with Minister of Sport and Recreation Fikile Mbalula watching on.

The award recognized a formidable woman who had broken barriers and made strides in the business of sport as administrator by dedicating her life to the development and success of South African sport.

Kambarami is one of the founders of the Momentum eKasi Challenge and the SuperSport Park has risen to the number one ranked stadium in the country in 2015 under her watch.

Kambarami, previously the marketing and events-manager of the Titans, was promoted to the position of chief operating officer for the franchise in 2014, which made her one of the most powerful women in South African sport.

Patricia Kambarami, chief operating officer of Unlimited Titans.

SuperSport Park, Centurion is one of the country's favourite cricket grounds, hosting T20-, one-day internationals, test matches and domestic games.

"The award is an endorsement off Patricia's excellence as administrator and her ability to motivate and encourage her team to continuously pursue higher standards," said Jacques Faul, CEO of the Titans.

"We at the Titans family are delighted about the achievement. We wish to congratulate her on this landmark feat, which is well-deserved.

"One of the hallmarks of her career has been her focus and her commitment to service delivery that exceeds expectations."

In 2003, Kambarami worked as venue assistant for World Sport Nimbus, an organization that managed the commercial property of the international cricket council at the Cricket World Cup in South Africa and Zimbabwe. When the position of marketing manager at the Titans became available, she successfully applied for the post. She started to work in Centurion during the same year. She also masterminded the conceptualization and practical implementation of the Momentum eKasi Challenge.

Kambarami holds an MBA from Nottingham Trent University in the United Kingdom and a certificate in sport events and project management from Wits University's graduate school of business. She is currently enrolled for a Masters degree in Sports Law through the De Montfort University in Leicester.

Kambarami has played a significant role in two recent national awards won by the Northerns Cricket Union. Northerns walked away with the spoils as overall incentive scorecard-winner, an initiative conceptualized by Cricket South Africa.

'Quins honours Johan Heunis and others

Koos Venter

Pretoria Harlequins remains one of the most popular sports clubs in the city.

This was again evident last week at the club's annual cocktail function, where all affiliated sport clubs at Harlequins gather to honour members for their contribution to the 'Quins family.

Harlequins club still offers the opportunity for members to take part in sports such as rugby, cricket, hockey, bowling and road races on top club level in Pretoria.

Some other sports facilities are also available only for participation on recreational level.

At last week's event, three people were honoured by being officially admitted to the roll of honour of the club. The first is Joy Devine, one of the best women softball players South Africa has ever produced. She played softball for nearly two decades at the highest level and throughout her sporting career she was a member of the Harlequins club.

The second addition to the roll of honour was cricket legend Trevor Goddard.

Although Goddard never was a member of the Harlequins club, he was a familiar face at the club when he spent two seasons in Pretoria to play for the former North-Eastern Transvaal province from 1966 to 1968.

The famous former Springbok fullback Johan Heunis, was the third one honoured by Harlequins this year. Heunis was also the guest speaker at last week's cocktail function.

In his speech, Heunis made many interesting comments about the Springbok team selected for the World Cup in England.

He expressed particular concern about the many senior players in the team who had been struggling with serious injuries until the selection of the team. Heunis made no secret of his doubts in the defensive ability of the team's number one fullback Willie le Roux.

He expressed doubt if Jean de Villiers was still fast enough to play test rugby at top level after his serious knee injury last year.

Heunis did not entirely shoot down the Springboks' chances to come home with the cup. His only condition for success was that the team as a whole should be very fit.

"This will be a very competitive tournament and a few teams have a chance to win it. Ultimately, however, I believe that fitness is the factor that is going to give the nod to the winner," Heunis said.

From left are Neil Smith (vice president and master of ceremonies), Springbok legend Johan Heunis and Edward Jacot-Guillarmod, president of the sports club Harlequins. In Heunis' hands is a framed photograph of himself that will be added to the club's heroes gallery.

Bulle gereed vir Leeu-stryd?

Koos Venter

Die Cheetahs het Vrydagaand duidelik na Loftus Versfeld opgeruk om wraak te neem ná die pak slae wat hulle sowat 'n maand gelede in Bloemfontein gekry het.

Dit gee ekstra betekenis aan Lappies Labuschagne en sy makkers se oorwinning van 24-17 oor die Vrystaters.

Hierdie oorwinning dui daarop dat die jong span van die Blou Bulle reeds geleer het om onder moeilike omstandighede en onder druk vas te byt en steeds te wen, terwyl hulle nie hul positiewe spelstyl in die proses versak nie.

Tot dusver het buitefaktore soos die weer telkens saamgespeel en die Blou Bulle se jong span kon hulself uitleef in hul nuwe spelpatroon.

Vrydagaand was egter nie net 'n karaktertoets teen 'n begeesterde span van die Cheetahs nie, maar dit het ook gewys dat die Blou Bulle onder moeilike omstandighede, soos die nat veld en reënweer, kon aanpas sonder om stereotipes terug te val op 'n rigiede hoogskop-en-jaag spelpatroon.

Terloops, Franco Smith se Cheetahs is beslis baie beter as wat hul vyfde plek op die puntelys aandui en dit maak die Bulle se vertoning juis betekenisvol.

Die Cheetahs het die wedstryd teen 'n reuse-tempo begin en die Bulle was vir byna 'n kwartier onder groot druk.

Hul verdediging is behoorlik beproef, maar dit het gehou en by die eerste werklike geleentheid wat hulle gekry het, het die vaardige en vinnige agterspelers van die tuispan gesorg vir die eerste drie van die wedstryd.

Burger Odendaal se drie, waarmee hy 'n beweging van 70 meter in die linkerhoek afgerond het, was seker die beste bewys dat hierdie span reg is vir groter dinge.

Dit was hul eerste werklike geleentheid en hulle het dit deeglik benut en suksesvol afgerond. Dit is waarskynlik die groot verskil tussen die huidige Curriebekerspan en die SupeRugby-span van vroeër hierdie seisoen.

Daardie span van Pierre Spies kon eenvoudig nie ordentlik afrond as hulle geleentheid gekry het nie.

Nollis Marais en sy bestuur weet egter dat daar nog baie harde werk voorlê voordat hulle aan halfeindrondes kan dink of drome van glorie kan begin droom.

Soos enige span wat nog besig is in hul boufase het hierdie Curriebekerspan van die Bulle ook hul swakplekke. Die grootste kommer is natuurlik nog rondom hul skrum-

Arno Botha, Springbok losvoerspeler van die Blou Bulle, op die aanval in Vrydagaand se wedstryd teen die Cheetahs op 'n nat Loftus Versfeld.

Foto: GB Jordaan

werk. Hoewel die skrum Vrydagaand baie bestendiger verloop het, was dit steeds nie goed genoeg vir 'n span wat sy oog op die beker het nie. Boonop sal hulle eerskomende Saterdag met die beste skrum in die kompetisie te doen kry as hulle die Goue Leeus op Loftus Versfeld pak.

Swak skrumwerk teen die Leeus sal fataal wees en dit kan die Blou Bulle se gevaarlike agterlyn byna neutraliseer.

Die nuwe voorry, met Pierre Schoeman en Marcell van der Merwe as stutte, was skaflik teen die Cheetahs, maar daar skort nog iets met die skrum. Dit wil byna lyk of die vaste vyf nog nie as 'n eenheid saamwerk in die skrum nie en daar sal waarskynlik ook weer na die rol van die twee slotte gekyk moet word.
